Here's Another Week, 500 Acres of Floor, Sift's Good Idea, As the Pole Shifts.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

LAST week brokers bought and sold 3,500,000 more shares than in any previous week of stock exchange history.

The week closed with a mild selling attack. You will know tonight how this week started. Bears tell you "stocks are too high," and some of them are.

The bulls say, "stocks are not selling at their full value," and that is true of some of them.

THE wise man studies values, buys what he knows he can pay for, just as he would buy land or an automobile, and leaves the gambling fireworks and headaches to the foolish.

BOSTON, having modified an unwise restriction on building, will soon possess the biggest store and office building in the world.

Built in terraces on the "setback" system, the great structure in Park Square will contain 20,000,000 feet of floor space. That is equivalent to nearly five hundred acres of floor in one building.

It means great possibilities of increased city revenue, and, facilitating contact for business men, it means great saving of time.

Ten thousand people in one New York City building is not unusual, and every such unit means enormous saving.

SWIFT & CO. increase from $65,000,000 to $100,000,000 the amount of insurance on their 40,000 employes. Swift's and the men share the cost.

Insuring workmen was called rank Socialism when Bismarck, ultra-conservative, amazed Europe by his old-age pension laws. Now insuring workers becomes a part of intelligent, modern business.

Great industrialists realize that the men are also an important part of the plant.

NOBILE, flying over the North Pole in his dirigible, will drop wooden crosses blessed by the Pope and containing a letter in the Pope's handwriting.

It would have been desirable to make the cross of material more lasting than wood. Thousands of years hence, when the earth's changing position shall have given us another North Star, and made the Polar regions warm, it would have interested another race of men to find the interesting relic of our day.

GEORGE REMUS was a bootlegger, somewhat temperamental. In fact, his temper was violent.

He killed his wife, shot her dead in spite of her pitiful appeals for mercy. But, intelligent and forceful, he convinced justice that he was insane. He went to the insane asylum for a little while—and, having now convinced justice that he has recovered his sanity, he is let out.

The next chapter will be interesting.

IF THERE are 4,000,000 idle in America, as the Democrats say, seeking to oust Republicans, or only 1,870,000, as the Republicans say, is not this the time to inaugurate the five-day week?

EFFICIENCY in machinery has advanced more rapidly than demand for workers.

The work that 100 men did in the automobile industry 10 years ago is done by 30 men now.

The five-day week, universally applied, would about solve the unemployment problem.

WHY not try it? To have all workers busy five days, resting two days, with nobody idle, would be a good deal better than all the employed working six days and millions idle six days.

CANADA'S government encourages use of electric power, particularly on farms and in small communities. Water power is developed fully to generate the current, and all are assisted in its installation.

Farmers are taught to grind feed with it, pump water and do their other work.

And, by the way, United States farmers are urgently invited by the Canadian government to settle in Canada.

OUR attention here is concentrated on a different problem. We want to make sure that the right people get possession of our power sources. The right people being those that control power and peddle it to the people. As to farmers and others that buy and use power, our government has not found time to think about them.

PROPHECY is usually dangerous, particularly dangerous for farmers when government prophesies go wrong. The government forecast on potatoes last fall predicted a crop greater than the real one. Many farmers sold in a hurry at low prices, some were not marketed, many fed to stock.

Then the shortage was seen, price went up, a few wise people made the money, NOT the farmers.

GIRL WIFE ON TRIAL FOR LIFE

Wistful-eyed and serious, Mrs. Angeline Bove, 21, stood before Judge Harry H. Rowand in Criminal Court today, charged with the murder of her husband, Alfonso, 37. She pleaded not guilty.

Attorney Charles B. Prichard, Mrs. Bove's counsel, did not indicate, as selection of the jury began, what his defense will be. Police will testify, it was said, that on the night of September 29 last, after shooting Bove, she declared "He wouldn't take me to a movie, so I shot him." Bove died the next day.

Neighbors, who have kept the two young children of Mrs. Bove, brought them into court today to sit beside their mother while she fights to escape punishment for the murder of their father. They clung to her skirts, bashful and afraid.

Sensational testimony in the case is predicted. Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty is handling the prosecution.

Joseph, 2, son of Mrs. Bove, didn't know his mother when, for the first time in six months, he saw her in court today. The mother broke down and wept when neighbors handed the lad to her. Alfonso Bove, Jr., 4, wrapped his tiny arms about his mother's neck and cried.

Tiny Angeline Bove, on trial today for her life, will plead for mercy on an unwritten law.

Scrutinize Scrap Iron Sales

Following charges that the Department of Supplies has failed to account to the City Controller for scrap iron sold February 22, Council today decided to investigate the case Wednesday.

The charges were contained in a letter received from J. P. McCann, secretary of the United Iron and Metal Company.

McCann charged that his company submitted a proposal to purchase scrap iron at the city filtration plant, but was informed by Bertram L. Succop, director of supplies, that the material had been sold and removed on Washington's Birthday, February 22.

He charged further that inquiry at the office of Controller John H. Henderson revealed the fact that no record of the sale or of the receipt

ERNEST SCHRICKER, of Clayton, Wis., a former American soldier, committed suicide in the American Military Cemetery at Belleau Wood.

Adolph Kaess, superintendent of the cemetery, found the body today beside the Second Division Boulder shot through the temple. A pistol was at his side. Schricker left a letter to the Paris post of the American Legion excusing himself for the act and asking that he be buried in French soil.

His papers included an honorable discharge from the Engineer Corps and some cash and checks.

KLAN'S "FRAME-UPS" WITH WOMEN TOLD

International News Service

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., April 2.—A tale of crime ranging from floggings to murder and political corruption, committed or sanctioned by the Ku Klux Klan, was revealed here today by D. C. Stephenson, once Indiana Klan Dragon, and second in command of the national klan.

Stephenson's story was told in his cell in a formal, sworn deposition, given under order of Judge W. H. S. Thomson, of the United States District Court of Pennsylvania.

The deposition was taken under direction of Van C. Barrickman, Pittsburgh attorney, who is counsel in a federal suit seeking to oust the klan from Pennsylvania.

Men were flogged, lynched and burned at the stake for opposing the klan, while those higher placed were ruined socially and politically when the organization could not bend them to its will, Stephenson revealed.

CHURCHES BURNED

Catholic churches were burned and pillaged, riots were incited and political officials bent to corrupt ways through orders of the klan chiefs.

Parts of the deposition, dealing with murders and political crimes charged to the klan, are withheld pending court action on the deposition.

The published portion, however,

LAD DIES BY OWN HAND

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 2—Suspended by a belt from a rafter, the body of Alfred Oliver, 15-year-old Hurst High School student, was found today in the basement of the home of his uncle, John Mahalor, of Mutual, Mt. Pleasant township. The case was reported as a suicide to Coroner James Harkins, but relatives could give no reason for the boy's act.

Court Bars Picketing At Mine

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 2.—Picketing by the United Mine Workers of America, as an organization and as individuals, is prohibited at the Smith township mines of the Bulger Block Coal Company, of Pittsburgh, in a preliminary injunction granted the company today by Judge James I. Brownson.

The injunction restrains the United Mine Workers of America, District No. 5, of that organization, and Local No. 1975, as a local and as individuals, from parading on or past the premises of the company, loitering or assemblying on or near the premises or on public highways nearby, interfering with employes of the company, and using threats, epithets or intimidations in addressing employes.

ROBERT STEVENS

Robert Stevens, 14, 214 Hazel way, West Homestead, faced trial in Criminal Court today for the killing of an unidentified stranger on the banks of the Monongahela River, near Homestead, last September. Stevens is the youngest person in the history of the county to go on trial on a murder charge. Alvin Hess, 16, held with him since September, was found guilty and sentenced to life imprisonment last week.

MYSTERY FIRE RAZES MINE CO.'S BARN

Fire early today destroyed the huge barn of the McClane Mining Company's Maude mine, Treveskyn. The loss is placed at $5,000. There was no stock in the barn. The origin is a mystery.

Last week 60 union miners were arrested in the vicinity of the mine for unlawful picketing.

Today's fire is the second suffered by the McClane Mining Company recently. Last fall the tipple of the Richhill mine, near Washington, was burned with a loss of $100,000.

STRIKE OF NONUNION MINERS IS CALLED

WHEELING, W. Va., April 2.—A strike of nonunion miners has been called for April 16. Circulars were distributed throughout the nonunion mining district of Northern West Virginia and Eastern Ohio today, urging the nonunion miners to join a "new union" that "means the salvation of the miners," and to cease work April 16.

The circulars take exceptions to the manner in which the United Mine Workers of America are being led by President Lewis and claim that he is a tool of the mine owners and associated with both major political parties.

WARD CO. ROBBED OF $16,500

Two Franklin Savings Bank messengers searched through Bertillon records in Central Police Station today for photographs of three men who shortly before noon robbed them of $5,500 in cash and $11,000 in checks and money orders.

The holdup occurred at Thirty-first street and Spring way, three minutes after Henry Walker, Negro, 50, and Edwin LeGoullon, 20, left the plant of the Ward Baking Company with receipts of late Saturday wagon drivers.

As the messengers crossed Liberty avenue en route to Penn avenue, where they planned to take a street car to the bank three blocks away, the bandit trio stepped out of Spring way. The leader carried a rifle, his companions each a revolver.

While the man with the rifle "covered" the messengers, his companions took the satchel and en-

El Tower Cabaret Fought

Director of Public Safety James M. Clark deliberately broke his promise to residents of Squirrel Hill when he granted a dance and cabaret permit to El Tower Apartment, according to charges filed today with Council.

As a result of the charges, President of Council James F. Malone announced that a hearing on the subject will be held Wednesday afternoon.

One of those protesting against the permit was W. D. Harrison, of the department of athletics, University of Pittsburgh, who sent a letter to Council stating that last fall, on a petition of 50 residents of the district, Clark had revoked the El Tower dance permit.

"He promised us that so long as he was director there would be no permit issued in the future," said Harrison, adding that, in

BUCS HEAD HOME; BUSH MIFFED

By CHARLES J. DOYLE, Staff Correspondent.

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 2.—All was not well with the Pirates today as they began their homeward trek for the opening of the National League season. In fact, they left the California training grounds with such a lop-sided percentage of defeats against victories in exhibition games that even Manager Donie Bush appeared slightly concerned.

But Bush himself declares he's not worried, that he has faith in the team. He says:

"I expect to win the pennant again this year.

"By the start of the season the Pirates will be a different bunch.

"We have been a little slow rounding into shape, but we have a stronger team than last year's."

HOW HE DOPES 'EM

Bush expects the Giants, Cardinals and Cubs to furnish the strongest opposition.

"I can't says which of the three will give us the most trouble," he said, "but I expect those three teams to finish in the first division. The order in which they finish depends on which one is the most fortunate with its pitchers and suffers least from injuries."

The addition of Sparky Adams, who came to the Pirates in the

NEGROES WIN PLACE AT "SAVE-UNION" PARLEY

Declaring that the Negro was discriminated against in the United Mine Workers of America and demanding recognition of a Negro delegation to the National "Save-the-Union" conference being held at the Labor Lyceum, 35 Miller street, es Fulb, Negro, of Primrose, created a stir at today's session but gained his point and a group of six Negro miners was d to sit on the stage with other leaders in the insurgent ement.

lb's demands came in response a proposed amendment to the nference program dealing with organization of Negro miners in the South, who are in the majority in the non-union field. He demanded to know why his race did not have representation on the committee which drew up the program and why there were no Negroes on the speakers' platform.

irman John J. Watt and Secretary Pat Toohey undertook to answer Fulb and a delegate from Canada proposed a motion inviting the delegates to join the insurgent leaders on the stage. The motion was carried unanimously.

"NO HOPE IN SENATE"

In the recommendations of the committee for the winning of the Pennsylvania-Ohio-West Virginia strike, the delegates are told: "It would be an illusion to hope for any remedy from the Senate Investigation committee. We can expect nothing but hostility from all sections of the Coolidge government." Then follows instructions to miners in the different districts for spreading the strike.

While the insurgents hold their conference, district and international officials under the leadership of Philip Murray and P. J. Fagan are holding mass meetings at California, McDonald and Arnold City.

Yesterday, meetings were held at Russellton, Huston, Library and Bentleyville.

The miners' union has made good its threat to stop relief doles to local unions sending delegates to the National Save-the-Union conference, the second session of which was held today.

"We shall carry out our policy to the letter," declared Philip Murray, international vice president of the union, in announcing the action. Expulsion from the union s been threatened also. "These e-the-Union leaders are nothing but out and out communists."

T. Fagan, president of Dist No. 5, United Mine Workers, said: "The committee claims duly elected delegates from local unions, but this is scarcely true. Of 264 locals in the Pittsburgh district, only nine sent delegates to the Sunday meeting."

Yesterday's sessions were taken up with addresses uring the overthrow of the John L. Lewis regime and relating various incidents in the management of union affairs to support charges of reactonary leadership and alleged corruption.

BROPHY SPEAKS

Speeches were made by John Brophy, chairman of the National Save-the-Union committee; Pat Toohey, secretary of the committee, and almost a score of delegates.

Toohey called upon the miners to take over their local unions. He enunciated the plan: "The Save-the-Union movement in the various districts shall at once, through the local unions, insist upon the calling of special emergency district conventions, carefully guarding against any packing methods by the Lewis machine. In the event of refusal or delay by the present district officials in calling such conventions the respective Save-the-Union movements shall themselves call the conventions. At these emergency district conventions the offices of Lewis machine supporters shall be declared vacant and new officers, representative of the membership, shall be elected. In the local unions new officers shall be elected in place f the proved Lewis supporters. fter the district conventions the tional convention of the U. M. A. shall be organized on the principle."

GIRL WIFE ON TRIAL

the girl. Angeline is fighting hysterics bravely, for she is as different from the Velma West type as day is from night.

In court they are crowding and fighting for a sight of her and when they get it, they say:

"Not that little girl! Not that kid. A murderess!"

It is hard to believe her a killer when you see and talk to her, for she is just 21 and looks 16, and has soft red-brown curly hair and a little pale face. When she stands up you see that she is less than five feet tall. Four feet 11 inches to be exact, and weighs less than 100 pounds.

But Angeline, who admits having shot her husband, Alfonse Bove, in their home at 7024 Agnew street, September 29, has seen much of life. She is the mother of two babies, Jose, 2, and Alfonso, 4.

"Yes, I killed him. I couldn't help it," she shook her head and said it in a way that would move any human being with a heart. As though she didn't expect it to be believed and went on with an effort:

"Really, when you hear the whole story that I will tell in court you won't blame me so much. Oh, I know murder is wrong and I'd give my own life to bring him back and pay for my sin. But at the time I learned something about him that made me so mad I wasn't responsible. I was horrified. You'll see. We have proof."

The greatest cross she has had to bear is separation from her babies. She choked up and couldn't speak at all for a moment when she mentioned them. Then she began to weep wildly:

"What will become of my poor babies. Oh, what shall I do."

Nearly all of her people have been to the jail except her babies and mother, Mrs. Dominick Stellutto, of 1653 Gopher street. Although 46, Mrs. Stellutto brought another baby into the world a month ago, her thirteenth child. On account of this, Angeline has begged her to stay away from the jail.

"I'm afraid it would kill her," sobbed the pretty Angeline, "if she saw me behind bars."

ILL IN JAIL

Then she told of being dreadfully sick herself almost all the time she has been in jail, and of not being able to stand on her feet for two weeks at a time. Her illness was brought on from overwrought nerves and worry.

"If I just had myself to think about, I'd go to the chair and let it go at that," Angeline's nails bit into the palms of her hands," but when I think what it would mean to my kiddies, I almost die at the very thought."

The Boves were married almost six years, and were never particularly happy. He was almost 40, and not a "home body," his little wife admitted.

Angeline, despite her grief and her fright, looks really very pretty. She has a blue woolen dress, smart little black felt hat and a gray and black checked coat trimmed with a gray fur colla And she wears her clothes with a pretty little air, too.

of any money had been received there. Henderson this afternoon confirmed that charge, saying that he had no record of the sale or of the money received by the city.

According to McCann, the practice during previous administrations had been to sell scrap iron and other material under competitive bids, a check for one-half the amount going with the bid and the rest being paid before the material was removed. He wrote that Succop insisted that he is within his rights to sell material privately and arrange for terms.

McCann charged that he also was unable to find any records of scrap iron sold at the Hamilton avenue asphalt plant about the same time as the filtration plant disposal.

That was the statement of Doris McDonald, the flapper-convict, as the studded gates of Portsmouth Prison clanked behind her today. Here, in a cubby cell, she must spend the next 25 years of her life.

MILK DRINKER GOES FREE

Two men standing at Denniston avenue and Aurelia street drinking from quart bottles of buttermilk, early today, aroused police suspicion. F. J. Timm, 22, of 321 Renfrew avenue, stood still when the officers approached, but his companion ran, not stopping even when two shots were fired in his direction. Timm, arrested, explained in the Frankstown Avenue Police Court that he and his friend had been drinking. He was discharged and police made no effort to locate the friend.

Women as Klan Bait Disclosed

reveals the inner workings of the organization as it appeared to the man who once ruled it. It was called by officials who saw the deposition, the "first real unmasking of the klan."

Stephenson told freely names of victims of klan wrath, and of perpetrators of the outrages. He discussed causes for rioting at Mer Rouge, South Bend, Herrin, Carnegie and other places.

The former dragon told of his leadership of the klan, of its formation and early prosperity under the idealistic rule of Emperor Simmons. Then he revealed the evils of later klan rule.

When Simmons was ousted from leadership the klan continued to scheme against men it could not bend to its purposes.

"Women," Stephenson declared, "were the chief and most effective means of destroying klan opponents.

"One instance was an attempt made to involve the name of Senator Fess with that of a woman. The klan reason was that Senator Fess had voted against the Sterling-Towner bill, which would have abolished parochial schools and had for its object other purposes."

Stephenson told how the klan bought judges by pledging them enough votes to elect them; how legislators were put in office to vote for bills suitable to the society.

Questioned on political policies, he told of inìating Gov. Ed Jackson, who, he said, had visions at one time of going into the White House through ad of the klan.

"BLACK MASK"

Hiram Evans, he said, at one time told him he was going to move the national offices of the klan to Washington, D. C., "there to do for the United States what he (Stephenson) had done for Indiana."

He revealed existence of the "black mask" worn by members of lynching and whipping parties. It was, he said, the official uniform used in acts of mob violence. He mentioned also the "Battalion of Death," a purple robed group of killers in Philadelphia and other communities.

Riots at Niles, O., and Perth Amboy, N. J., in which klansmen were killed, were sponsored by the klan, he said, in order to increase membership.

Asked for membership figures, Stephenson said that at the peak of its prosperity in 1922 the klan had 315,000 members in Indiana, 350,000 in Ohio, 200,000 in Pennsylvania, 60,000 in New Jersey and 200,000 in all the rest of the New England states. Illinois was slightly below Indiana, the witness said, while Michigan was about the same as Indiana. Wisconsin had 60,000.

The organization took in between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 during the time in which he held office, Stephenson said.

Stephenson's deposition will be used in a suit, to be held April 9 at Pittsburgh, in which five former klansmen are seeking to have the klan barred from Pennsylvania on ground that it has incited riots, misappropriated huge sums and exerted evil influence on public officials.

REFUSES COMMENT

Attorney Van C. Barrickman, on his return to Pittsburgh today from Michigan City, Ind., with the deposition of David C. Stephenson regarding the Ku Klux Klan, declared that he would not discuss the matter until the case comes up in Federal Court next week.

"I have steadfastly refused to talk about this matter," he said, "and I do not know how the news leaked out in Michigan City, Ind., that I had interviewed Stephenson. I am fighting my case in the courts, not in the newspapers."

Stephenson's expose of the Klan was received by registered mail today at the office of J. Wood Clark, clerk of the United States District Court here.

that promise, the cabaret and dance opened Wednesday night with three policemen directing traffic.

"The peace and quiet of a beautiful residence district is being destroyed, property values are being lowered and the decency of young men and women and children is being jeopardized," charged Harrison, asking a hearing.

W. N. Smith, of 5660 Munhall road; K. R. Smith, of 1617 Murray avenue, and Curtis T. Kossman and William Goldberger, who are building apartments on Munhall road, were others who sent letters protesting against Clark's action. All of the letters contained charges that the prohibition and other laws are being violated.

FRESH EARTHQUAKES ROCK SMYRNA

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 2.—(AP.)—Another series of earthquake shocks struck the historic city of Smyrna this morning increasing the terror of the population which was barely recovering from an earthquake Saturday which caused heavy loss of life.

The first shock today, a slight one, was felt at 6 a. m. and this was followed by a succession of eight shocks which sent the boldest who had returned to their houses fleeing to the hills again.

The appearance of geysers in the Gulf of Smyrna added to terrifying phenomena which had marked the preceding quake and spread further panic among the population, which is camping in the fields and hills.

Latest reports placed the dead at 40 and the injured at 136. A total of 1,970 buildings have been destroyed and the damage is estimated at $2,000,000.

Official accounts said that at Smyrna 29 houses and 10 shops were demolished and 193 houses, two mosques, 84 shops, four schools, five factories, two motion picture theaters, one hospital and a clock tower were damaged.

At Karshiquaya, 16 houses were destroyed and 100 damaged.

There were several victims at Torball, where every house was in ruins. A thousand homeless peasants crouched among the debris. According to Moslem custom, they buried their dead immediately. Then they turned their faces toward Mecca and prayed to Allah, waiting with Oriental resignation for what might befall them, as intermittent tremors continued.

Several villages around Torball were destroyed. Five were uninhabitable and four were badly damaged. In one of these villages 150 houses were razed and 40 persons injured. In another, eight persons were killed and 16 injured.

ROBBERS GET $16,500

tered an automobile parked east in Spring way. They were followed by the "guard" who kept the messengers at bay until the motor was running and the car in motion.

A dozen people, according to Walker, who has been employed by the Franklin Bank for 29 years, were within a few feet of the holdup. On the second floor of the Ward Baking Company plant, Ray P. Madigan and Ralph Chantler, assistant sales managers, watched the holdup through a window. They ran into the office of W. T. Day, general manager, who led them in a mad dash down the steps and out into the street as the bandits' car, a Buick brougham with Pennsylvania license 842-450, turned east in Liberty avenue at Thirty-second street and headed for the Bloomfield bridge and East Liberty.

Day ran to an automobile belonging to R. A. Jackson, vice president of the Ward company, but found it locked. No other machine for him to commandeer was in sight.

Police have complete descriptions of the bandits. They have been seen loitering in the neighborhood for three weeks. Descriptions enabled police to discount rumors that the robbers were members of the "Flathead" mob, of which Paul Jaworski, escaped bandit and convicted murderer, was a leader.

NORMALVILLE TO DISCARD OIL LAMPS

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., April 2.—Oil lamps are going out of style at Normalville, little mountain town near here, and residents are preparing to store them away. Homes have been wired and are ready to cut in on electric current as soon as the new line is completed.

DIRECTOR CLARK BACK IN CITY

Mayor Charles H. Kline and James M. Clark, Director of Public Safety, "go to the mat" late today in an effort to settle the differences between the local prohibition enforcement department and the city police department. Director Clark spoke as above and Mayor Kline commented in turn; Administrator John D. Pennington has nothing to say. Since his statement, the Mayor has been silent on the case, but today's conference is expected to settle the question of whether or not city police will make a grand scale attempt at enforcement of the prohibition laws. Director Clark also has said that the city police make their raids quietly and that the prohibition men, when they raid, do so with a lot of ballyhoo.

FRENCHMAN MAY RACE GERMANS IN SEA HOP

International News Service

DUBLIN, April 2.—According to an unconfirmed rumor current here today, the next attempt to span the Atlantic from Europe to America may develop into a race between an unnamed Frenchman in a "mystery" plane and the Junkers' monoplane Bremen.

It was reported that the Frenchman has requested the Free State government for permisison to fly t. the Baldonnel airfield preparatory to making a trans-Atlantic attempt. Government officials, however, refused to comment on the report.

At the airdrome officials had nothing to say, but it was understood that they were rather apprehensive of having the Frenchman and the three Germans together. Von Huenefeld, backer of the Bremen flight, has been reported as having strong monarchist sympathies, and it is feared he may have the antipathy for Frenchmen generally accredited to Prussian monarchists.

The unknown Frenchman is believed to be Maurice Drouhin. Last year Drouhin agreed to pilot Charles A. Levine to America after giving up his position as pilot of the huge French plane Bluebird, which was being groomed for a trans-Atlantic hop, because it took too long to get the plane ready.

Although weather reports were more favorable today, Capt. Koehl did not think they had improved sufficiently to warrant a take-off and the Bremen remained in its hangar.

WEATHER STILL "OFF"

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, April 2.—Although the weather reports were more favorable at midnight than for several days, they were not sufficiently promising to enable the Berman plane Bremen to start its trans-Atlantic flight Monday morning. Capt. Hermann Koehl, pilot of the plane, and his companions, Baron Von Huenefeld and Arthur Spindler, are getting tired of waiting. They said they will start Tuesday if conditions are at all suitable.

Ex-Warden Of Jail Dies

EDWARD LEWIS

Mr. Lewis, former warden of the county jail, died early today in his home at 2944 Stafford street. He was ill two days.

ILL ONLY TWO DAYS

Edward Lewis, 69, for 23 years warden of the county jail, died early today in his home, at 2944 Stafford street, after an illness of but two days. Death was the result of intestinal trouble. Dr. J. A. Williams and Dr. Allen Kreps were with Mr. Lewis when he died.

Warden Lewis was born in Wales and came to the United States with his parents when he was 8. He was educated in the local schools and first went to work in the Oliver and Snyder iron works on the South Side. He worked for this company for several years and, when he left to enter the sheriff's office, he was plant manager.

In 1902, shortly after the escape of the Biddle boys from the jail, Lewis was appointed warden. He held that position continually until June 1, 1924, when he tendered his resignation. Since then he had been retired. During his term as warden he did much to better conditions for the inmates. He brought about a reorganization of the jail force and a modernization of the cell rooms.

He was an active member of many Masonic organizations, being a thirty-third degree Mason and a past officer of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania. He also was a member of the First Presbyterian Church. He leaves two sisters, Mrs. Craddack Jones and Mrs. John L. Williams of Pittsburgh.

LOCKJAW VICTIM FOUND

Suffering from tetanus, O. J. Dolan, 24, was found in a semi-conscious condition on the second floor of the garage of Mrs. Sarah Dickson, 1614 Davis avenue, this morning.

A pedestrian heard moans and summoned the police. Dolan, who formerly was employed by the Dickson family, told officers that he had crawled into the garage yesterday. He could not tell how or when he suffered a scratch on his chest which caused lockjaw. Leo Fitzgerald and Nick Mattis sent him to St. John's Hospital. His condition is serious.

A note found in Dolan's pocket saying that he was going to "end it all" was believed by police to have been written while he was delirious.

Mrs. Sarah Dickson, widow, said she and her aged sister had reared Dolan, a carpenter, from boyhood. He left their home for church yesterday morning, they said.

$1,200 COURTSHIP, SUICIDE IS END

Infatuation with an unnamed girl and financial difficulties, are believed to have caused Emil Walder, 36, of Overbrook, to shoot himself to death in the Overbrook interurban street car station. His body, found yesterday, with a small pistol nearby, was taken to the morgue.

According to County Detective Frank Ritz, Walder recently spent $1,200 of his savings in company with with whom he had become infatuated.

WALES GETS UP—HORSE CAN'T

HAWTHORN, DURHAM, Eng., April 2.—(AP.)—While competing in the Welsh Guards challenge cup race at the brigade steeplechases today, the Prince of Wales was thrown twice. The second time his horse, Miss Muffet, apparently was badly hurt, being unable to rise.

The Prince was thrown three times on Saturday while competing in two steeplechases at Bromsgrove. He gave up the first race when he was thrown twice at the fourth fence, but remounted after being thrown in the second race, and finished fourth.

Miss Muffet, a favorite mare which has carried the Prince in many steeplechases, fell at the first fence, and the Prince remounted and proceeded. On the next to the last fence the horse fell again.

CASH FOR RIVERS

FLOOD SURVEYS START HERE ON $19,000

WASHINGTON, April 2.—(AP.)—The War Department announced yesterday that $19,000 had been assigned the Pittsburgh district for flood control work on the Ohio, Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers. The allotment is part of the $1,500,000 fund assigned the Secretary of War for flood control work on numerous streams throughout the country.

The money became available March 23 and Maj Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of engineers, has selected for special attention streams on which floods have occurred and others in which flood control is involved, in order that an early solution of their flood control problems may be made.

The funds will be used for the beginning of surveys of the streams with a view to the formulation of plans for their most effective improvement from the standpoint of flood control and navigation, in coordination with irrigation and power where these uses may be involved. A reserve of about $500,000 is being held to supplement the allotments for those streams on which progress of surveys may indicate that additional funds can be used profitably this year.

The allotments also include the Muskingum, Little Kanawha, Big Sandy, Guyandot and Kanawha Rivers in the Huntington, W. Va., district.

Glorious White Teeth

Are Dull Teeth Freed of Dingy Film

Send for 10-Day Free Test

"OFF-COLOR" teeth can be lightened amazingly, even to often give dazzling whiteness.

With right daily care you can work a great change in the color of your teeth. Can give them clear and charming gleam.

There is a new way in tooth and gum care. A way that removes the dingy film that clouds your teeth. . . . A film that absorbs discolorations and keeps teeth dingy looking.

Just run your tongue across your teeth. And you will feel that film. It is the great enemy of pretty teeth and healthy gums.

It clings to the teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It forms a breeding place for germs. It lays your gums open to bacterial attack, your teeth open to decay. Those germs, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea, modern scientists agree.

Old-time methods failed in successfully removing film. Ordinary brushing fails to do it satisfactorily. Under film are the clear, whiter teeth you envy in others.

Now modern science has perfected an effective film combatant called Pepsodent. It acts to curdle film, then remove it. It firms and protects gums; beautifies teeth quickly and correctly.

MRS. MABEL McKEEN
GEORGE McKEEN

Dr. Joseph Springer, famed Chicago police criminologist, is investigating at the behest of relatives to determine the manner in which Mrs. Mabel George McKeen, 22-year-old bride, Morris, Ill., met her death. She was found dead in bed, with a pistol at her side, and a coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death. Relatives scout a suicide theory because they knew of no motive. She leaves a tiny son, George.

Accordingly we have chosen from the loveliest and most representative of the new season silks and made price concessions that will guarantee the success of our purpose. The event will continue throughout the week, and assortments will be replenished from day to day. The combined Joseph Horne Co. and Palmer sales forces will be available to handle the crowds.

Announcement

We are pleased to announce that former head of the Palmer Silk Store, Jenkins Arcade, has been appointed Manager and Buyer of the Joseph Horne Co. Silk and Woolen Dress Goods Departments, effective today. Mr. Palmer has discontinued his shop in the Jenkins Arcade and disposed of his stock through public sale. No Palmer merchandise will be offered for sale by this store.

The sales force of the Palmer Silk Store has been added to the Joseph Horne Co. organization.

Palmer Patrons Welcomed

Mr. Palmer and his associates will welcome their former patrons in the larger quarters of the Horne Fabric Section, with the assurance that the superior facilities of this larger department will enable them to serve them even better than in the past.

The combining of two large, high-class silk businesses, under one head, with the increased facilities and world-wide resources of this store, should work to the advantage of Horne and Palmer patrons, alike, as well as to the general rule.

Demonstration This Week
—of—

Svelda

In the Wash Goods Section

See the beauty of this newest man-made textile in the frocks which will be shown on living models every day this week. Let Miss Layton tell you something of the process of making Svelda, and let her show you pieces of the lovely printed voiles which have been washed and ironed without particular care. There has been no visible effect on color or texture. Living models will assist in the demonstration. Svelda is a new material, introduced this season for the first time in America, featured in Modes and Manners, and already attracting enthusiastic attention because of its beauty and its unique wearing qualities. It adapts itself to the mode with the graciousness of silk, and it may be cared for as easily as cotton.

Make the acquaintance of this important new textile this week.

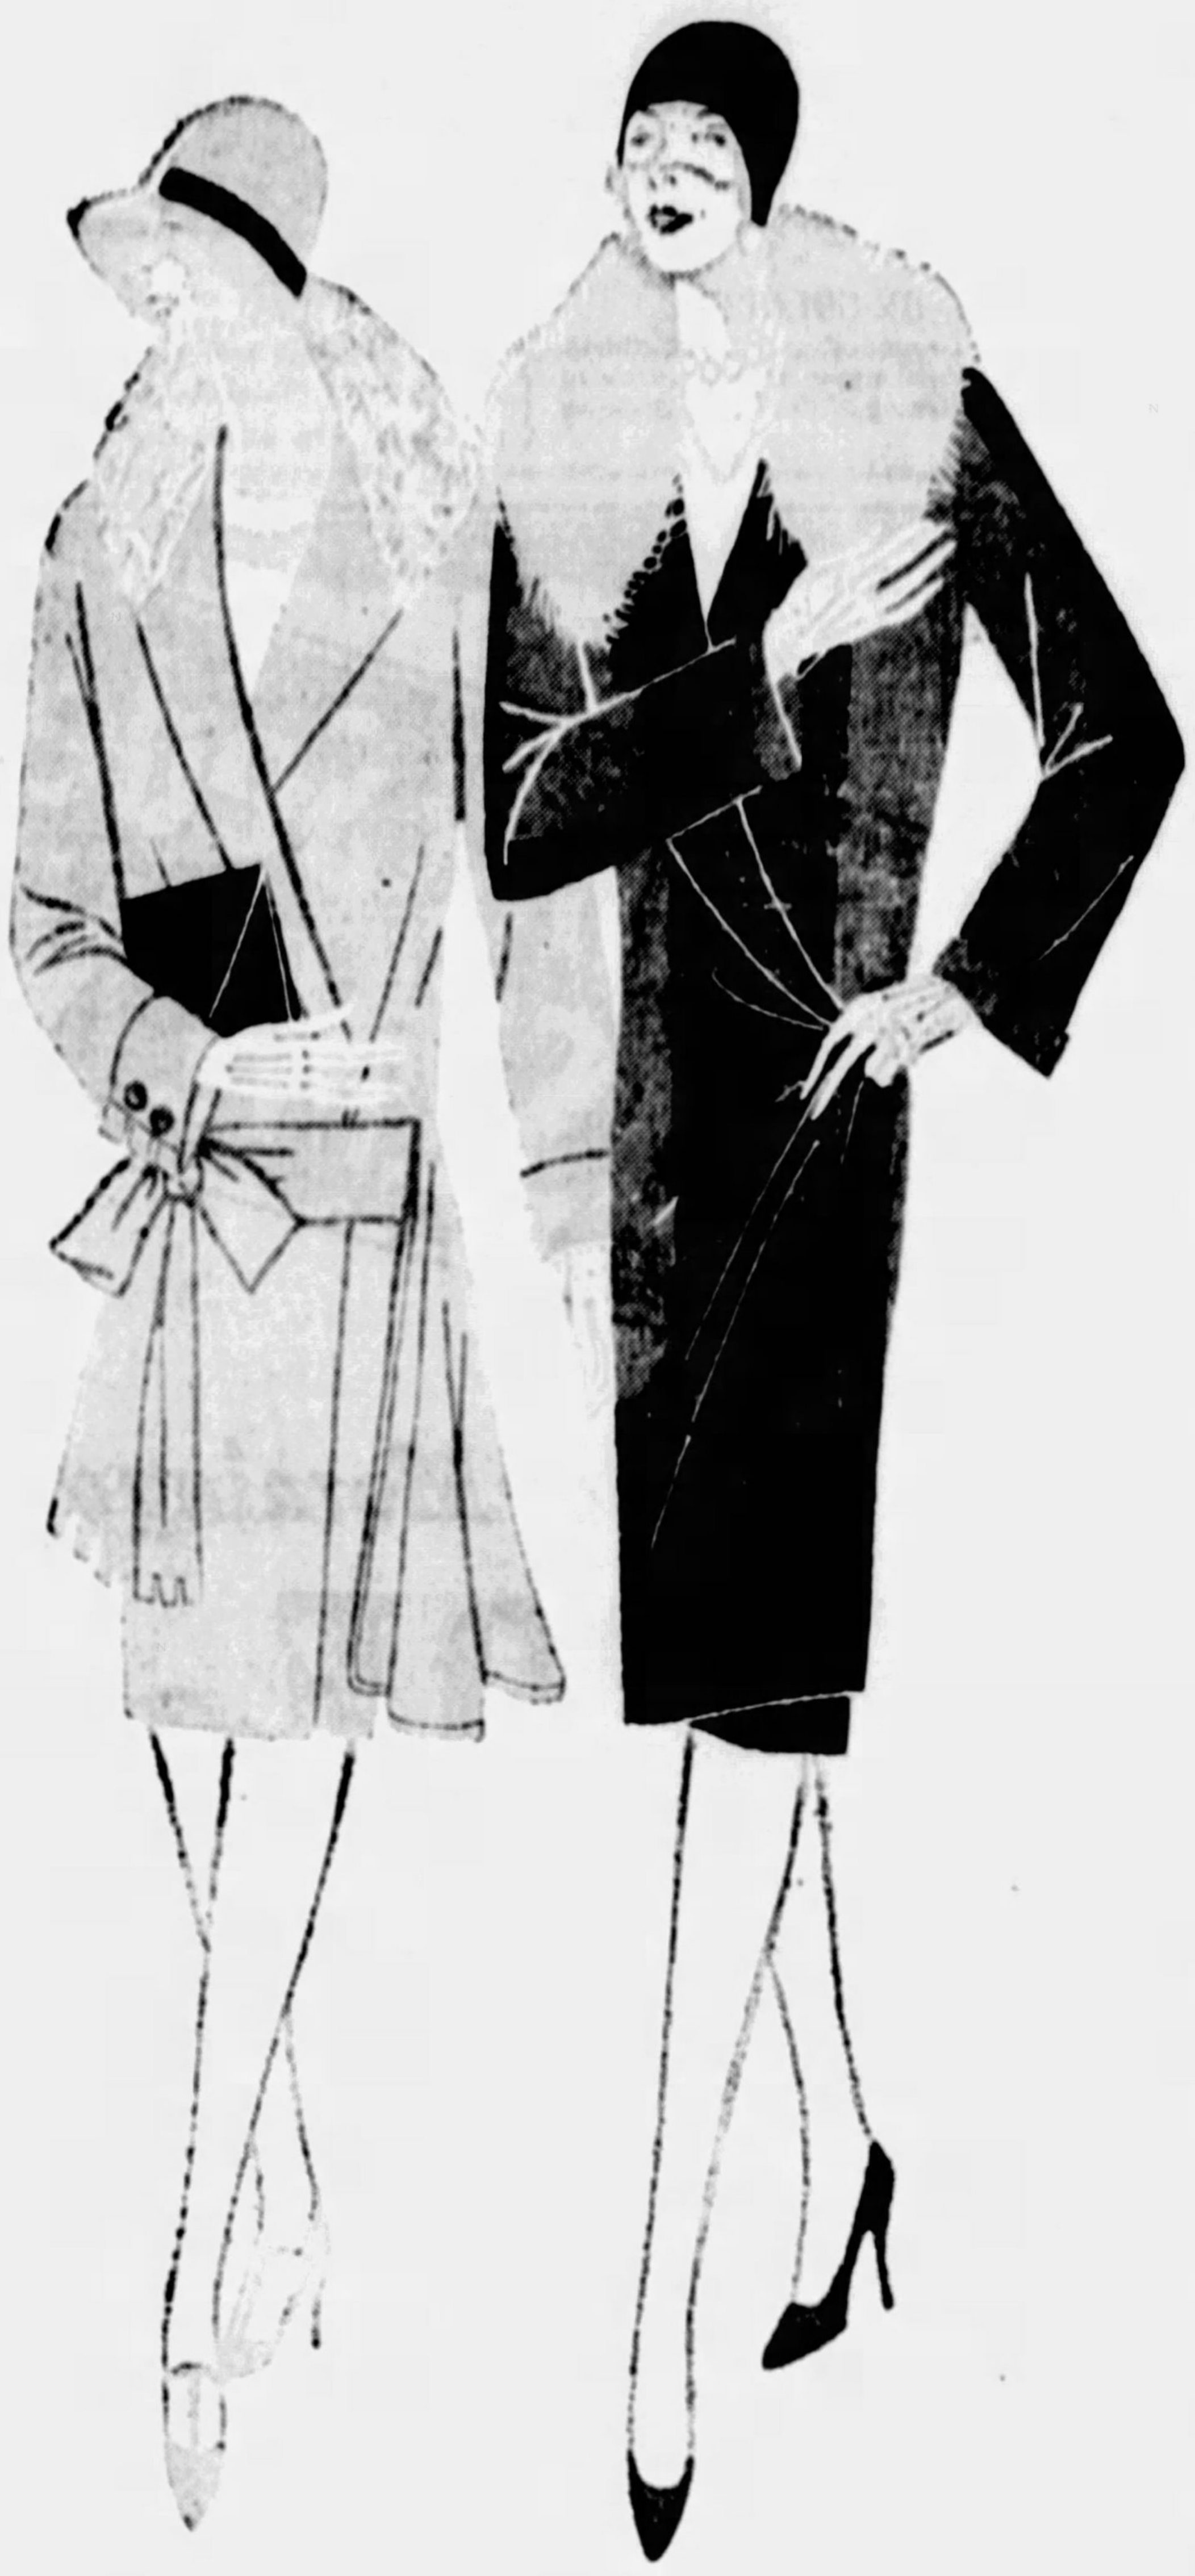
The Old Reliable Store Which Has Served Fashionable Pittsburgh for So Many Easters, Comes Forward Again To Do the Honors



Your Coat—

What Story Will It Tell to a Clothes-Wise World?

Will it say that you have chosen with good taste, and a true sense of value? That its fabric and style are, unmistakably, of spring 1928? That its fur trimming bears the same fashion date, and is the most excellent of its kind? That beneath your coat's smart style, its obvious quality, and its outward beauty, there is a subtle, suggested something which gives evidence that into its making has gone the sincere purpose to produce a coat which would make the wearer better dressed and surer of herself?

All this, your coat will tell, if it comes from Horne's, where extensive stocks have considered every smart development in the coat mode, covering all types of wraps for Easter and the spring season, in a vast collection.

Foot Saver Shoes

MEAN SLENDER ANKLES

WOMEN who dress smartly choose Foot Saver Models because they interpret with especial distinction the latest trend of Fashion. Yet in every Foot Saver Model they obtain, as well, the effect of the trim, youthful ankle . . Every Foot Saver design is executed in lines of slenderness for the foot—lines that lure the eye to the in-curving contours of the ankle, and carry it to the out-curving contours of the calf! . . . The secret lies in the famous Foot Saver patented built-in construction, concealed beneath originality of design and luxury of materials. Tension upon the muscles is relaxed. Feet are saved from the pressure that means swelling at the shoe tops. Natural curves are accentuated. The result is daintiness and grace for both foot and ankle, growing out of the impeccable style . . . Come in and see the new Foot Saver Models we are now showing.

Foot Saver Shoes, confined exclusively to Horne's in Pittsburgh, many smart styles in various leathers, are priced $10.00, $12.50 and $14.50.

MINERS LOOK FOR SCALE RENEWAL

WASHINGTON, April 2—(AP.)—K. C. Adams, an official of the United Mine Workers, said today that the union expects the majority of coal mines in the Southwest to renew the Jacksonville wage agreement and continue to operate under it.

John L. Lewis, president of the union, who has been in Washington for the Senate soft coal investigation, has gone to Springfield, Ill., pending resumption of the hearings next Monday.

Over the week-end he conferred with James Skahn, president, and Harry Burr, secretary of District 11, concerning the Southwest situation. Lewis denied afterward that there was special significance to the meeting.

Adams said Lewis was informed by the district officers that some mines might shut down while marketing coal already mined, with the intention of renewing their contract with the union in the near future.

Adams was informed by wire today that 50 Illinois companies already had renewed their contract, which expired April 1, and that 20,000 men were affected. Information that a number of Indiana mines had signed also was received, he added, with indications that more intended signing.

Before leaving Washington Lewis said the United Mine Workers would not deviate from the Jacksonville scale. Describing that as a fixed part of the union policy, he denied that strikes were pending in any of the southwest districts and expressed the conviction that the scale would again meet the approval of the operators who had observed it during the past year in that section.

Union officers here withheld comment on the report adopted at Pittsburgh by the "Save the Union" committee, which urged the removal of Lewis as president of the United Mine Workers.

Worn Out This Spring?

You Can't Feel Well When Kidneys Act Sluggishly

SPRING find you stiff, achy—"all worn out?" Feel tired and drowsy—suffer nagging backache, headache and dizzy spells? Are kidney secretions too frequent, scanty or burning in passage?

Know then, these are often signs of improper kidney action. Sluggish kidneys allow waste poisons to remain in the blood and upset the whole system.

If your kidneys act sluggishly, assist them with Doan's Pills. Doan's, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and aid in the elimination of waste impurities. Users everywhere endorse Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say Pennsylvania Folks:

FRED W. CHRISTIE, 3032 D Street, Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I found Doan's Pills very satisfactory. I often felt stiff, lame and achy, especially in my back and stooping was rather difficult. My kidneys didn't seem to act properly. When I saw Doan's Pills advertised I began taking them and in a short time I was in good shape again. I would certainly use Doan's again if I needed them."

MRS. WM. MOOMEY, 320 Larch St., Scranton, Pa., says: "A cold settled in my kidneys and they acted irregularly. I had dull pains across my back and it was hard for me to stoop or straighten. I never rested well, became dizzy at times and always felt tired. After using Doan's Pills I was cured and have had no trouble since."

DR. KAMMERER URGES WORLD COURT BILL

Urging support of individuals and organizations for the Gillett World Court resolution pending in the United States Senate, an open letter to the citizens of Pittsburgh was announced today by the Rev. Dr. Percy G. Kammerer, chairman of the local World Court committee.

In the letter it is recalled that:

"Senator Frederick H. Gillett, of Massachusetts, recently introduced a resolution in the Senate suggesting a further exchange of views relative to the World Court in order to establish whether differences between the United States and signatory states can be satisfactorily adjusted."

It is also pointed out in another paragraph of the letter:

"The larger part of our reservations they (the signatory states) accepted. Part of the fifth they did not understand, but eminent jurists believe that the differences are not fundamentally grave—that further conversations are likely to produce agreement. Should you agree with these views, will you not personally by letter, and by resolution from any organization with which you are connected, urge Senator David A. Reed and other members of the foreign relations committee to support the Gillett resolution?"

The letter is signed by Dr. Kammerer, Mrs. J. O. Miller, A. L. Humphrey, the Rev. Dr. C. E. Macartney, Mrs. Carroll Miller, Dr. John G. Bowman, Judge W. H. S. Thomson, Bishop Alexander Mann, Col. Samuel Harden Church, Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence, H. C. McEldowney, Rabbi S. H. Goldenson, William M. Robinson and Maj. E. Lowry Humes.

THREE PERSONS BITTEN, DOG IN CARNEGIE CELL

A large brindle bulldog is occupying a cell in the Carnegie police station, the first canine prisoner to be lodged in the borough lockup. The dog was taken to the station yesterday by Harry Richardson of East Main street, Carnegie, who said the animal was thought to be the one which had bit Roy Barnett, Saturday, and two children on Friday.

THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH

Irene Rich Playing Featured Role in "Handle With Care", Her Last Film For Warners

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,

Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, April 2.

WARNERS' studios have opened with a vengeance. Scenario writers are dashing about, directors are conferring in corners and Jack Warner and Darryl Zanuck are spending all their time planning new pictures.

One of the coming films is "Handle With Care." Notice the influence "Excess Baggage" has had in the way of titles. Not that I, for the world, would accuse Warners of stealing an idea. But Anthony Coldewey has written the original and he may have been just a teeny weeny bit influenced by this title.

Lloyd Bacon, who is to direct this story, has gathered a rather interesting cast. Irene Rich, who is leaving Warners as soon as she finishes this picture, has the feminine lead. William Collier, Jr., has the male lead opposite her and others in the cast are Audrey Ferris, Claude Gillingwater, Anders Randolf and Jack Santoro.

Mary Astor's honeymoon days now being past history, she is casting her thoughts on her career. Mary's first picture, as Mrs. Kenneth Hawks, is "Once There Was a Princess." The dark-eyed, pretty bride is, of course, the princess—and Lloyd Hughes, the knight, the prince or whoever it is, who furnishes the male appeal.

'Tis nothing new to see Mary and Lloyd together. They have been teamed so many times that out in the small towns they speak of them as being screen mates. William Beaudine, who seems very well and very comfortably located at the First National Studios, is to direct "Once There Was a Princess," as well as a comedy for Charley Murray.

A little piece of gossip came to my ears that is pretty apt to excite interest throughout the industry. Jesse Lasky has hurried back to New York to consult with Adolph Zukor about a theater consolidation with United Artists. This will not in any way affect the productions of the two companies, but it will mean a merging of all the theaters under the control of these two companies. I suppose, after the Fox Company went out and acquired the West Coast Theaters and the Finkelstein and Rubin chain, the other film companies felt it was time to pool their resources. C. B. De Mille is also mentioned in this amalgamation, but only as a part of United Artists. Sounds to me as if there will be great doings in this industry of ours before the year is over.

Certainly Molly O'Day is getting every encouragement to get rid of all that unnecessary poundage. First National, with whom she has a contract, has offered her the lead in "The Barker," Milton Sills' next picture, if she will reduce sufficiently to qualify for the part within the next three weeks. Molly is young, pretty, but alas, alas, alas, prone to plumpness. With the opportunities before her she can afford to diet. It's difficult, of course, when a girl has a healthy appetite, but only a little courage is needed for a short time. And then, think of the results.

They are building a prison on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot. Not to house any unruly actors or to put away any directors, who spoil pictures, but to just add a little necessary atmosphere to "Brotherly Love," the next comedy of Karl Dane and George K. Arthur. The company expected to take the picture at San Quentin, but even a trip to the state prison failed to convince the authorities that it was all right to film the prison. Hence, the home-made structure. Marceline Day will play the leading feminine role.

Russian

Mme. Komisarjevskaya

The lady, you might guess, is Russian, a member of Nitika Balieff's "Chauve Souris," the unusual European variety show, which, on its first visit, brought us "The Song of the Volga Boatmen" and "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers." It is coming to the Alvin.

SECOND WEEK FOR PLAY

"My Maryland," the American operetta which returned to the Alvin last week and duplicated its record business of last fall, has found it necessary to stay over at the Alvin for another week to satisfy the huge demand to see it. This week will mark its final appearances in Pittsburgh this season.

Frank Craven is both the author of and principal actor in "The 19th Hole," opening a week's engagement in the Nixon tonight. Mr. Craven also wrote "Too Many Cooks," "The First Year" and "New Brooms."

Berna Deane, who sings the prima donna role of Bonita in "The Love Call," next week's attraction in the Alvin, sang the feminine lead in "The Vagabond King" here two years ago. "The Love Call," like "My Maryland," features a large male chorus, said to number 60 voices.

"Wings," photoplay aviation spectacle, telling the story of the late war in the air, will have its Pittsburgh premiere Monday evening, April 9, in the Nixon. Much of this picture was taken on a made-to-order battle area of five square miles, near San Antonio, Tex.

LINDBERGH ON PENN SCREEN

In the film, "40,000 Miles With Lindbergh," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Company reviews the spectacular aeronautical career of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. This three-reel picture, said to be filled from end to end with thrills, enthusiasm, drama and spectacular achievement, will be shown in the Penn this week.

"Forty Thousand Miles With Lindbergh" is not merely a record of the achievements of the nation's hero. It is a story, too, of his amazing career, pictured for the first time, and a history of aviation as well. It shows the first efforts of Wilbur and Orville Wright in aviation and then depicts scenes of the youthful Lindbergh's early days in flying. There are thrilling scenes of circus stunts illustrative of Lindbergh's early career and showing the type of training it took to develop that wonderful pluck and courage which were necessary to bring to a successful conclusion the determination to fly alone across the dangerous expanse of the Atlantic Ocean.

Player to Build Hotel With Airport

The world's first hotel with an airport attachment will be built by Pola Negri, according to announcements made in Los Angeles by her architect, Richard M. Bates, Jr.

Plans for the novel departure in hotel and club accommodations are well under way and the $200,000 apartment-hotel, which the Paramount actress will build on property in the exclusive Wilshire district, is intended to provide housing space for planes of 210 tenants. Construction is to start in April.

The building will be of six stories, with 210 rooms.

HAUL 'EM IF TOO HEAVY, SLOT MACHINE RULING

The excuse that a slot machine is too heavy for a policeman to carry to hearings fails to satisfy the Morals Court, Magistrate A. D. Brandon said yesterday when a patrolman failed to produce a machine confiscated in a pool room at 1506 East street, Saturday night. Brandon directed Patrolman John Lyons, who appeared against Dominick Rocco, alleged owner, to use the patrol wagon next time. Rocco conducts a shoe shop in the front of the pool room and is not its proprietor, according to police. He and eight boys were discharged and a warrant was ordered for the proprietor.

Movie Stars Hold Flood Victims' Benefit

All of Paramount's stars and featured players with the exception of Bebe Daniels and Pola Negri, who were away on location, participated in a midnight benefit held recently for the victims of the St. Francis Dam catastrophe, at the Metropolitan Theater in Los Angeles.

How To Work Hard And Enjoy It

Millions of men and women all over the world take Kruschen Salts daily—not because they are sick, mind you—but because they know the little daily dose of Kruschen keeps them always fit and energetic and also keeps the system free from over-acidity.

People who take two tablets of Kruschen Salts in their coffee every morning (tasteless that way), won't have headaches, and are always free from constipation, depression, dizziness, coated tongue and unpleasant breath.

They have no poisons in their system because the action of Kruschen Salts on the liver, kidneys and bowels causes perfect and regular elimination.

If you want joyous health and glorious vigor—if you want to work hard and enjoy your work — try taking Kruschen Salts every day—it isn't a purgative or cathartic—or even a laxative—but after two weeks use you won't have any further use for slam-bang medicines—your bowel will be regular—60 tablets 60 cents (30 days' treatment)—sold the world over. Lenten Sermonette

By the Rev. Norman C. Millison, First Evangelical Church.

The story of Christ's rejection by the Pharisees is a tragic tale.

"The Master's whole public ministry was a record of growing antagonism on the part of those who should have received Him with friendly heart. And the story of their opposition is the story of their blinding prejudice.

Is it not prejudice that keeps the Lord Jesus Christ out of the minds and hearts of great multitudes of people today? They will not "hear Him, nor will they test the great reality of His claims. And conclusions reached away from Christ, are always warped, biased, often hysterical.

But, on the other hand, if men will submit the Savior's claims and promises to the acid test of personal experience, if they will hear Him with open and candid mind, He will conquer.

Let us reventiy test the claims of Christ during these glorious days before us. Jesus Christ is our moral pattern and He says, "Follow Me." He claims to be the fountain of life, "I am come that ye might have life, and that ye might have it more abundantly." He is our Redeemer, for He gave His life a ransom for many.

The turning point in many a man's career comes when he gives sincere and prayerful consideration to the claims of the Lord Jesus Christ. In those higher places of the soul, where alone the air is clear enough for men to see Christ without distortion, they are possessed of a passionate eagerness to know God and Jesus Christ whom He hath sent, that they might have life eternal.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Planning of Costumes for Easter Sunday Tends to Relieve Drabness of Holy Week

WITH the release from Lenten drabness less then a week away—Saturday at noon to be exact—the social world is improving, and will undoubtedly shake off its six weeks' inertia with the dawn of Easter Sunday. Holy Week itself, of course, will be uneventful, for even those who are not occupied with religious devotions during this period still conform to the old tradition of Lenten abstinance from society affairs,

The entire Holy Week is not without any other interest but religious, however, for anyone. What woman can resist planning a costume to wear to church Easter morning that will symbolize the arrival of spring and a spiritual re-birth? And the optimists prophecy that winter will soon end its belated visit to the first days of spring,

Perhaps the only entertaining this week will be informal affairs for the school set, whose vacations will all end on Easter Monday at the latest,

Virginia Crawford, of Lexington avenue, who is home from Smith College for the spring holidays, entertained on Friday afternoon at a tea in her home, The guests of honor were Mrs, Robert H, Depue, who was an October bride, and Alice Billings, daughter of the C. P. Billings, of Ellsworth avenue, Alice, who also is a Smith girl, was among the list of the prospective debbies for the 1927-1928 season, Her parents made a change in their plans, however, and she did not come out, Now she and her family expect to leave soon to live in New York, I hear,

Those pouring at the tea were Lucy Coleman Ward and Anna Jane Phillips. Lucy, the daughter of the T. Coleman Wards, came out in the fall, you'll remember.

A delightful place to spend Easter is Bermuda, don't you think? Occasionally Pittsburghers vary their sojourns in Palm Beach or other resorts favored by the social world with a visit to that charming island. David Aiken Reed, of Pittsburgh and Washington, and his attractive daughter, Mrs. Charles Denby, Jr., now of Philadelphia, are in Bermuda, and expect to stay there for Easter, I hear.

The junior Mrs. Denby, of course you know, is the former Rosamond Reed, who came out both in this city and the capital. Her wedding, on February 26, 1927, was one of the most brilliant events of the year. Mrs. Denby's father and mother-in-law, Col. and Mrs. Charles Denby, of Philadelphia, are with them. And they are staying at Pamander Gate, which is as picturesque, I have been told, as its name.

Another Pittsburgher attracted to Bermuda is Mrs. John M. Milliken, of the Schenley apartments. She has joined a party there, and will return to the city the latter part of this month.

Contrary to her usual custom, Mrs. W. Harry Brown only remained a few days in Washington on her way north from Palm Beach. She will be seen, I expect, at all the notable post-Easter weddings. The latter part of the month she will sail for England. London, as you know, has always proved a lure for this popular Pittsburgh woman.

Mrs. Lawrence C. Phipps of Washington and Pittsburgh is spending a few days in New York.

Mrs. Frank E. Rutan of Sewickley and Philadelphia and her two daughters, Elizabeth and Martha, expect to spend Holy Week in Seville, Spain. Later they will travel through France and Italy before returning to Sewickley in June. Elizabeth came out last fall in Pittsburgh.

Making an Easter visit to Gotham are the Arthur E. Brauns and their daughter Elizabeth. They are stopping, as usual, at the St. Regis.

Mrs. Charles J. Ramsburg and her daughters Margareth and Harriet are back from California. Harriet was another debutante who made her bow to the social world in the fall.

At a bridge luncheon given by her mother in Kaufmann's, the engagement of Miss Blanche Elizabeth Rossman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Rossman, of Knoxville, to Dr. Edward R. Jenney, of Cleveland, son of the Rev. and Mrs. M. L. Jenney, of Beaver Falls, was announced. Dr. Jenney is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh and a member of the Ni Psi Phi fraternity. No wedding date has been set.

At a bridge party followed by a buffet supper given Saturday by Miss Lois Pauline Hartman in her home in Bradford Woods, announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Susan Helen Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Crampton Scott, of Wightman street, to Newton Earle Tucker, of Pittsburgh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick N. Tucker, of Daytona Beach, Fla., formerly of Hartford, Conn. Miss Scott is a graduate of the Pennsylvania College for Women, and Mr. Tucker was graduated from Northeastern University, Boston. No wedding date has been set.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan George Turton, of the East End, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Fannie Turton, and W. Worley Gillett, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Gillett, of Sewickley, which was solemnized Saturday at noon by the Rev. Dr. Alleyne C. Howell, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Sewickley. Only the families and few friends were in attendance.

Mrs. Alberta Miller, of West Park, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Ella May Rodgers, to William W. Sandles, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Sandles, of McKees Rocks. The wedding will take place in the early summer.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Bannerot, of the Schenley apartments, are at Pinehurst, N. C., for a short time.

The marriage of Miss Helen Margaret Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Anderson, of Chartiers avenue, and Robert Henry Cattran, of McKees Rocks, was solemnized last Tuesday in the Anderson home by the Rev. Dr. Ira Freeman. Mr. and Mrs. Cattran will live in McKees Rocks.

Miss Eleanor L. Brown, of Broughton street, entertained with a dance Friday night in the Pittsburgh Athletic Club in honor of Miss Helen Adaline Snively, daughter of Mrs. Harry A. Snively, of the East End. Miss Snively's marriage to Nevin Truog Brennen, of Ben Avon, will be solemnized May 15.

A rummage sale for the benefit of Louise Home for Babies will be held Wednesday and Thursday in the Market House, Larimer avenue and Broad street, East Liberty. Kuhn, Mrs. Harry Dangerfield, Mrs. George J. McKee, Mrs. W. S. Horner and Jessie D. Matchneer. Directors are, Mrs. Grant Dibert, Mrs. Joseph W. Marsh, Mrs. S. W. Cunningham, Miss A. E. Wainwright, Mrs. Grace C. Hooker, Mrs. J. C. McDowell, Jennie Jenkins, Mrs. J. Raymond Price and Mrs. H. J. McElheny.

The general chairman is Mrs. Grace C. Hooker with Mrs. Harry Dangerfield in charge of women's clothing; Mrs. W. R. Kuhn, children's clothing; Mrs. Grant Dibert, household supplies; Mrs. J. K. Everhart, men's clothing; Ada Benner, shoes; Miss Leonard, novelties, and Mrs. W. S. Horner, hats.

$100,000 BLAZE AT MONESSEN

MONESSEN, Pa., April 2.—A $100,000 fire swept the new Eagles Fraternal Home yesterday.

Fire companies from Charleroi and Donora helped the Monessen firemen fight the flames, which raged in the four-story structure more than eight hours before they were brought under control.

George Cooper, a trustee of the lodge, was overcome by smoke when he entered the building to get records from a safe on the second floor.

The building, which was constructed in 1925, was practically destroyed.

OIL PIONEER IS DEAD AT 89

TITUSVILLE, Pa., April 2.—(AP.)—Funeral services for Joseph Seep, 89, chairman of the board of directors of the South Penn Oil Company and a pioneer oil man, will be held here Wednesday. He died Saturday at his home here. Mr. Seep entered the oil business in 1869 when he came to Titusville. He organized the Seep Purchasing Agency, which purchased virtually all of the crude oil for the Standard Oil Company until dissolution of the Standard company in 1911.

Wednesday morning the body will be taken to St. Titus Church, where a requiem high mass will be sung by the oil magnate's nephew, Father Herbert Hillemeyer, of Fort Thomas, Ky. The funeral procession will then proceed to St. Titus Cemetery, where the body will be interred in the Seep mausoleum.

Born in Germany, he came to the United States in 1849. He was educated in Cincinnati, during the Civil War engaged in the grain and hemp business in Kentucky, and a few years later he moved to Titusville. Elected president of the South Penn Oil Company, he was chairman of the board of directors until his death.

He also was one of the organizers of the Central Kentucky Gas Company and owned a mine and smelter supply company in Colorado. He helped organize the Seaboard National Bank of New York, and was a director. He was chairman of the board of the Oil City Trust Company and a director of the Titusville Commercial Bank and Trust Company. An active Catholic, he had given a large cemetery to the local congregation.

Seep is survived by five sons and three daughters. They are Mrs. Lillian Quincy, Mrs. J. E. Fleming, Mrs. J. J. Harvey and William J. Seep, all of Titusville; A. F. and E. E. Seep, of Oil City; Albert H. Seep, of Denver, Col., and Herbert Seep, of Erie.

THOUSANDS HONOR WILLIS IN DEATH

Why We Behave Like Human Beings

by George A. Dorsey, Ph.D., LL.D.

Thinking, Like Scratching the Head, a Bodily Act

WIFE DEALS 13 SPADES

MR. AND MRS. TED CORBETT

Thirteen spades greeted the startled eyes of Ted Corbett, Pittsburgh Academy instructor, when he picked up his hand, the first dealt at a bridge party of two tables in the home of Mrs. Lois Smith, Mt. Lebanon. His wife was his partner—and the dealer, if that's important. Mr. Corbett, of course, made a slam—a grand slam. University of Pittsburgh remembers him as its track captain and record-holding two-miler as recently as 1925. He was graduated last June from the law school—and married just last Christmas.

THOUSANDS PAY WILLIS TRIBUTE

DELAWARE, O., April 2.—(AP.)—State and nation today honored United States Senator Frank B. Willis who was suddenly taken from the political arena by death Friday night, in the midst of the heated Ohio presidential campaign.

Yesterday 2,000 friends, neighbors and fellow townsmen filed past the Willis bier for three and a half hours.

Today at noon the Senator's body was taken under military escort from his home to Gray chapel at Ohio Wesleyan University, where it will lie in state there until funeral services at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Yesterday's tribute was chiefly that of friends. Today's ceremonies took on state and national significance with the arrival of scores of men in public life to pay homage to Mr. Willis.

Twenty-five hundred Delaware school children filed past the Senator's bier this afternoon when city schools dismissed at 2:30 to permit the boys and girls to visit Gray chapel.

The path of today's procession from the Willis home to Gray chapel followed the same line of march over which the fallen Senator rode triumphantly Friday night in a gigantic home-coming celebration. In the place of the red lights that glowed along the route Friday night, today found large wreaths of purple crepe streamers.

Yes, Suh! Will's A Kentucky Colonel

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 2.—Yesterday the Governor of Kentucky made me aide on his staff with the rank of colonel. I thought I would get out of Kentucky without being made a colonel, but luck was against me. This Governor is a Republican and I do hope people will not think anything changed hands, but the commission. His name is Sampson, a very strong man. He certainly slayed the Democrats "with the jawbone of an ass." His Democratic opponents run on "no horse racing in Kentucky," thereby not only supplying "Mr. Sampson" with the jawbone, but making themselves the whole animal, by thinking Kentucky would vote against horse racing. So its Colonel Rogers, suh. George, put a sprig more mint in that julep. Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

FREE GROUNDED RIVER BOAT

OIL CITY, Pa., April 2.—(AP.)—After being aground for an hour, the steamer Kittanning, which arrived here Saturday night from Pittsburgh, left here late yesterday on the return trip to the Steel City.

Due to falling of the river stage over night, it was found the craft was stranded when an effort was made to leave, but it was freed without damage.

The arrival of the craft here marked the first steamboat venture up the Alleghen- River to Oil City since 1897. Maj. Jarvis J. Bain, U. S. engineer at Pittsburgh, and a party of government officials made the trip to inspect the river channel and shore line.

How the Third-Degree Works; Why It May Solve a Murder Problem or Fail to Do So

The bulging with psychoses of our emotional side was the subject of Dr. Dorsey's chapter on Saturday in The Sun-Telegraph. Our loves and hates and the impulses which make them powerful influences in the lives of individuals and even of nations. How these are created, developed and become habits helps to explain "Why We Behave Like Human Beings."

Thought Reading and Dream Clues

ALL processes of thought function through reflex arcs which become conditioned, especially in childhood, and which tend to become habits. We learn to think logically just as we learn to speak correctly or to behave decently. I may think well, I may shave well—who shall say? My way of shaving and my way of thinking are my ways: the ways I have learned; they are my methods of response to certain stimuli in certain situations. I may change both tomorrow; some one is always inventing new ways of adjustment, new ways to excite human protoplasm to change its shaving soap.

GEORGE A. DORSEY

New thought also. Why not? We have new foods, new scandals, new songs, new elements, new diseases, new razors, new glands, new logic. New things to think about. The new grows out of the old—as corn grew out of wild grass, or as a submarine grew out of endless discarded models, or as chemistry grew out of alchemy, or as a poem grows out of tryings-out of word combinations. Trial and error.

The point is that there is no thought without muscular or glandular activity; this is true whether the stomach thinks hunger, the dreamer thinks air castles, the prisoner thinks freedom, or the maiden thinks of her lover. Thinking is a bodily act, as is coughing or scratching one's head. During thinking energy is consumed, mechanism is involved; and, as a rule, the whole body is interested and is listening in.

Reading Thought

Can we listen in, can we read thought as we can test blood? Only when we can see it; as poem, as picture, on the golf links, behind the counter, at the ballot box. By works. Overt and explicit action. Money talks also.

But suppose no money is forthcoming, how can we know what he thinks about it? Overt explicit behavior is easily enough detected and is often of less consequence than the implicit response. I ask you to lend me $5. You hand it over. That is an explicit act. But your implicit reaction may be of far greater consequence to me; you may think me a cheap skate and decide to cut me from your list. As you give no sign of such resolve, I cannot know that my "Lend me . . ." has cost so much.

Of course, if you have looked it or muttered it in thought I may be able to read your face or your lips. I may even suspect, with no overt sign on your part, that my request has moved you to more than is involved in handing over the bill. I question you; you deny that there is anything the matter with you.

As we all do at times. As the run-in suspect does. His face is a perfect mask for innocence. His self-possession is complete. He is wrongly suspected! He is innocent! Tthe "third-degree" often breaks the mask and upsets the self-possession. More often the third-degree fails or is not available.

Prying Out Secrets

Many methods have been tried out to read minds that would not be read, to detect an implicit response where the overt side had only been suspected. All these methods go on the justifiable assumption that what the individual does registers in the individual dynamic mechanism. Apply the proper test; the mechanism will yield its secret.

An extreme case will illustrate the methods. Suppose I return unexpectedly to my store some night, to discover my partner in some questionable act. We quarrel. And I kill him. Then cut his body up and dispose of it in the furnace—an extraordinarily difficult thing to do, but just suppose that I succeed.

The anger which prompts murder is an emotional impulse. There will be occasions and situations in which I shall have to be a man of iron to keep my emotions from betraying me. Charged with the crime, they might lead to changes in my respiration and vasomotor organization; even to increased sugar in my blood and urine.

Or in my reactions to words. Woodworth has devised an emotional questionary to serve to detect implicit behavior. There are two types of word reactions: the free: the continuous. In the free, words are fired at the subject one at a time. He is to reply with the first word that pops into his head suggested by the word used: bull—moose; rat—trap; pen—ink; teapot—dome, etc. Then ccomes a word which brings no response from me, or I am unusually long in reacting to it, or too quick. Or, if I am a girl suspected of being in love, I giggle, blush, or drop my eyes.

Clues in Dreams

The continuous type throws all the work on the subject investigated. Only one word is shot at him: he is to reply to his own replies. One word will suggest another; until the subject stops—blocked, as it were. Then a new word is given to start the subject off again. And again he seems to run out of words, is blocked. Do the lines converge? Do I always stop short of "murder," or "furnace," or chopping up a human body? Is my free association of words shorn of its freedom wherever and whenever I approach a word which suggests the emotion or the deed I am trying to conceal?

Dreams also may yield valuable clues to the nature of personal stress and general emotional life. Also postures, attitude, over and under reactions, poor adjustments, slips of word or pen, fumbling over names. But clues only. More often the "tests" fail completely—though they may lead to confession.

Conscience does make cowards of us all and habit keeps us straight or crooked; fear of consequences makes us cover our tracks.

"Reading the mind" is a figure of speech. The cashier of the First National may be a good reader of counterfeit money. I dump a bag of dowries shells on his desk. Cowrie shells are money in some parts of the world. Some of my cowries are counterfeit. Can he read them?

KILLED IN 2,000 FT. PLUNGE

SANTA MONICA, Cal., April 2.—William C. "Stub" Campbell, veteran parachute jumper, plunged 2,000 feet to death at Clover Field here yesterday when straps of his parachute broke while he was making a jump.

Campbell's body fell among the 5,000 spectators gathered at Clover Field to witness a benefit air meet, proceeds of which were to go to sufferers of the St. Francis Dam break and flood.

The parachute that failed Campbell was one of his own design and was similar to ones he had used in winning the national title at the Spokane air races last year.

A shipment of 8,000 eight-inch trout from the State nurseries will arrive on April 9 and go into fishing streams.

Members of the Dunbar local, Fayette County Fish and Game Protective Association, have killed 46 foxes, 66 weasels, 12 mink, 13 hawks, three owls and 19 crows during the past year in their war on noxious animals and birds.

SISTERS FOUND DROWNED IN SUICIDE PACT

International News Service.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., April 2.—Theory of a suicide pact was advanced today in explanation of the deaths of Esther Hoover, 22, and her sister, Sena, 18. The latter's body was recovered late yesterday in Eel River. The body of Esther was found Saturday in a millrace nearby.

Both had been drowned. There were no marks of violence. An autopsy revealed that Sena was soon to have become a mother.

The theory of a suicide pact was evolved after friends and neighbors recalled Esther's devotion to her younger sister. It is believed Sena confided her troubles to Esther and expressed the wish to destroy herself. Finding Sena had not the courage to die alone, it is thought Esther volunteered to go with her.

Esther, it was learned, was happily in love and was to have been married yesterday.

John and Edgar Eskew, brothers, and the girls' sweethearts, were taken into custody but later released.

MY Dear Sir: Undesirous as I am, despite my personal vanity, to crash your column at the expense of a local celebrity I feel that both you and Dorothy Erskine Brown should be put straight on the who, what, and where of Leo Robin. Leo Robin is not Leonard Robin. Leo is Leo and Papa Robin is in insurance agent in the Chamber of Commerce building. Leo is now basking himself in London, Paris, or some other point across the sea—sea. I could tell you more of the Robins, but this will suffice. I might add, however, that Brother Nat Robin, a former local pianist of note, is conducting a studio in New York and doing well—thank you. I failed to see your previous comment on Leo Robin. He had two shows in Pittsburgh within a short space of time. "Hit the Deck" and "Just Fancy." Even if you don't publish this correction I must tell you that I enjoy your column and like other things I enjoy, it (the column) improves with age. Signed: Harry I. Berlovich.

WE NOW CLOSE THE BOOKS ON THE ISSUE!

WELL, anyway, no matter where he is or what he is doing we trust that Leo Robin is getting along, as he was a very pleasant young man.

INADVERTENTLY, we referred to the town of Blawnox as Blaw-Knox. A note from a native says the Blawnox people are very touchy about this point and of course we hasten to make amends. We can appreciate any person's or town's sensitiveness about names. Just the other day the automobile association known as the A. A. A. sent us a communication addressed as follows: Mr. Harvey J. Bogle. The association's addressograph may in a year or so get warm, but right now about the best it does is to get the proper initials.

NOW Oscar B. Robin, sends a note: Leonard Robin is in Atlantic City and Leo Robin is in London writing for an English musical syndicate.

This will close the books on the Leo Robin issue.

A TRIP to Oil City by auto: You go out the Bigelow Boulevard, cross the Bloomfield bridge, retrace your steps a couple of squares, and head for the Washington Crossing. Thence, to the road to Butler, then to Harrissville, and onto a straight road to Franklin, from which place Oil City is but a hop,-step and a jump.

In Franklin you meet Larry Gent, who was one of the bosses of the late-lamented Franklin baseball club, and you also run into Wayne Bleakley, one of the town's bankers, who also knows how to order a fine meal at the palatial Franklin club.

You then visit Jake Pitler in Oil City, former Pirate, and Binghmaton-to-be player, and later Mr. Heineman acts as pleasant host in his home, where he entertains with wondrous stories of his trips abroad. Mr. Gent has a spare room, where you sleep soundly, and in the morning Mrs. Gent demonstrates the fine art of making breakfast coffee, and making bacon and eggs look like a picture in an advertisement. Then home in two hours and a half which is about 40 minutes longer than Wayne Bleakley's time for the distance.

JERRY The Epic of a Girl Who Had to Wait · by Elenore MEHERIN

Jerry Is Offered a Job Back Home and They All Start Just Before Christmas

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Jerry King, good looking, charming and nineteen, falls in love with Saxon Rhodes, a young architect. Marza, her fascinating mother, warns her that idealists like Saxon make poor husbands. When he goes abroad to study, Jerry promises to wait for him. She refuses a proposal of marriage from Heinie Ross. Jerry agrees to wait three years longer. She wonders whether Saxon loves her as completely as she loves him. Saxon calls on his sister who warns him against marrying anyone and facing poverty. Saxon's attention to Ora Pringle gives Jerry a pang of jealousy. They attend a week end party where things start to happen. She decides to give Saxon up. She meets her mother and discovers that Marza has another daughter of whose existence her husband had been ignorant. Marza tells Jerry that this sister of hers is dying and needs them both. Stephanie will live and they plan the future.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

THEY took Stephanie to a little resort on the lake.

"We'll stay a while . . . wait till she's stronger."

"Do it today," Jerry finally pleaded. "Marza, tell her today!"

"Yes—today, I will."

She went up and kissed her mother's pale lips and she murmured, feeling that her whole life rested in Stephanie's hands: "Mother, tell it as you told me—like that. What can she do but glorify you? At 19 can she help but thrill to a tale like that? If she's worth anything—anything at all. . . ."

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

JERRY stooped and filled her hands with brown dry leaves. Then she turned so that the wind from the lake blew her hair this way and that.

She thought of Marza and her sister in there talking: Stephanie learning the reason for her lifelong exile.

Would she feel greatly wronged? And would the new life they were planning for the three of them become bitter and difficult?

The glow from the fire fell on Stephanie's face, making it very delicate against the dusky warmth of her hair.

She heard Jerry's step and reached out a hand. "Oh, yours are cold. Sit down, won't you? Right there." For a long moment she didn't open her eyes, though the gallant, winsome mouth seemed smiling.

Presently she turned her head: "You remember him, don't you, Jerry? My father—I do, too. I remember gay things of him. He was all right, wasn't he?"

She turned full eyes to Jerry and gave a soft, catchy laugh. "Now, we know what's what. Makes it so much clearer going on, doesn't it?"

It went straight to Jerry's heart—the brave soundness of her. It made her tremble with a deep, warm admiration. Stephanie was worthy of Marza's great love; was a fine, gallant person.

She felt a sudden pride in Stephanie; a sudden boundless relief. It would be easy to go on with her—easy and joyous. She was one of them.

This feeling grew. She would regard the slim figure stretched before the fire and think with a quickened throb: "She's a little peach. I'm glad she's pretty." Or if she noticed a twinge of pain along Stephanie's lips: "She's suffering—she pretends not to." And with a sharp panic: "She'll be all right! Lord, how terrible if she shouldn't walk—how perfectly terrible!"

At these moments she had an almost maternal feeling, sharing poignantly in Marza's anxiety; understanding Marza's heart-breaking tenderness her wish to make things up to Stephanie.

Sometimes when she came in from long, lonely walks and dropped before the fire to listen to Marza's reading, she would think happily: "How crazy this is! How much finer Marza seems. Marza was a better person than she turned into."

One day in the beginning of December she and Stephanie were alone. Said Stephanie abruptly: "It would be sheer madness to go off to some new city. To say nothing of your part of it. Well, I shan't so much mind being passed off as the cousin. You know, Jerry, I'm just dying to see that place where you and Marza have lived. I've read so much about the Golden Gate and the great bay. What a thrill to sit up in bed in the morning and just look out and see the boats coming almost up to the door.

"Jerry, I wonder why all that should be considered tragic—I mean that about Marza and my father. The end was . . . think of it—the irony that he should have been killed like that. But for the rest, it seems to me only thrilling and sad. I loved him. Maybe I don't remember very much maybe I've made a great deal of it up and idealized him and think that I can clearly recall his image. It may be just the pictures that I've looked at so much.

"But I'm proud of him. I'd like to call myself Stephanie Marsh. I suppose that would be a fool defiance. There's no need to take the world into a person's confidence, is there?

"Well—don't you think we ought to be going home soon—in time for Christmas? I don't care how you smuggle me into the family. As long as I'm sure you and Marza will like having me about. You don't resent me, do you, Jerry?"

Jerry, kneeling before the fire and adding an absurd number of logs to the flames: "Oh, by the way, I love that rag tail bob of yours. I've not seen one like it before. I'm glad you're got chic, Steve!

"But think what a cross you might have been! Suppose you'd been a lily-sister or a psalm-singer and got mawkish about it? Or conventional and developed an inferiority complex? I was terribly afraid of this. You never can tell how a person's going to react."

"You forget, Jerry, how lonely I've been. Year after year in a convent. Nothing hilarious except those brief yearly visits of Marza's.

"And I did my share of wondering. The last two years especially. Before that I was content at school. Marza kept saying that when I finished we'd go to Europe. We didn't.

"Then last year I was wild to go to California. I had my heart set on this X-ray work. But I could just as well have been placed in a laboratory in San Francisco as here. Marza hadn't much answer to that. But when Sister Rose got me the opening here, Marza just wrote: 'Take it. I think it better.'

"I was fearfully crushed then. It seemed odd that she shouldn't want me because I knew she loved me.

"Jerry—I'd be earning $150 now if this accident hadn't happened.

"That's another thing—how are we fixed for money? Marza says we're rich, but I know we're not—are we? Besides, the money came from your father, didn't it?"

Jerry burst out laughing: "Well—if you're going to get fussy, yes—such as we have did, I believe, come as an unintentional bequest from one late but unlamented George King. He had a tight face.

"We're rich as long as we have three meals a day and sufficient garments to cover us. We have that."

"But I've cost a fearful lot. Four months in the hospital. And the doctors and nurses. I found out and it amounts to about $2,500. Then there's all the hotel bills.

"Can Marza make the grade?"

"Marza can always make a grade, Stephanie. I've found that out about her."

To herself, Jerry thought with terror: $2,500! Ye Gods!"

But Marza gave a serene, irresponsible answer to her fears: "We have plenty. I took out a mortgage of $5,000 on the apartments. That will cover all the bills here."

"But the operation for Stephanie in the spring? And the living when we go home?"

"In the spring, we'll have to take another mortgage—the place can stand it."

"You have to pay interest on mortgages, Marza."

"I'm aware of this——"

But not sufficiently aware of it to disturb her. She was sitting before a mirror now and combing her rich black hair away from her smooth, beautiful forehead. She glanced from her image to Jerry and said with a deep trembling laugh. "Not long ago, Jerry, a wrinkle seemed important to me. Now I'd be content to wear mittens like an old lady."

"Have a heart, Marza—don't get religious!"

"I've always been religious, Jerry. People who feel deeply are."

Jerry in her corner figured resolutely. They would have less than $200 a month clear—perhaps considerably less than this . . . then with another mortgage?

"It's up to me"—she thought—quietly. "I better get on the boat!"

That night Jerry wrote to Mac Phail, the teacher at the art school who was interested in her work and had advised her to try illustrating.

"I've got to get a job—a real, paying job with a regular paying salary. If that place with Erskine is still open will you speak for me——"

She paused with a peculiar feeling of guilt. Six weeks ago Erskine, interior decorator, wanted an assistant . . . a girl with artistic training. Jerry had refused. What a comedown for a brilliant genius person such as she!

She now thought hotly: "I've never made any kind of decent effort." She grew crimson with her memories. Stalling around waiting for Saxon Rhodes. Willing—slavishly willing and eager to lose her identity in his. Openly she had denied this—had talked largely of her own future and of a two-fold blooming.

She knew in her heart that Saxon and her love of him had sufficed—the only future she wanted.

Now—he had cast her off—oh yes—it amounted to this. . . .

"And a good thing," she thought, pressing her fingers till the knuckles showed white. . . . "Now I'll get out on my own. . . ."

MacPhail answered in a wire: "If you can get here by the first of the year, Erskine will hold the place."

Just before Christmas they started home. All the way Jerry thought excitedly as though the future would be settled in this one incident: "Will he meet me? Will he be there to meet me? I'll know by that—"

Eleanor Will Pose for Dicky, But Not With Fedor

MY little scheme to afford Noel Veritzen a few words alone with Mary Harrison did not work out. It was but a few seconds after she had gone into the house at my suggestion, when she appeared on the veranda again.

"Auntie Madge, you'd better watch that well-known memory of yours," she said with a gamin-like grin at me. "I'm afraid it's weakening. The telephone book was in its proper place. You hadn't taken it upstairs."

I could have boxed her ears with cheerfulness, also dispatch. Most of the group on the veranda were familiar with the fact that I am supposed to possess a most remarkable memory, my chief and most valued mental possession, for which I deserve no credit because it was the result of rigorous training from my babyhood upon the part of my mother. But Mary's comment mischievously and unmistakably betrayed the ruse I had used to send her indoors to Noel, and as young Mr. Jackson eagerly met her, expressing his emphatic reluctance to cut short the evening, and asserting his intention of seeing her again as soon as possible, I was miserably conscious that I had done Noel's cause harm instead of good.

That Eleanor Lincoln was secretly amused, even maliciously triumphant at my discomfiture I was sure, and the knowledge did not add to my comfort. I wondered whether it was with a feminine sense of "getting even" that she made her leave-taking of Dicky an extended one, talking with animation upon the subject which evidently had egrossed them all the evening, judging from snatches of their talk which had been spoken in louder tones and more enthusiastically than the rest.

This apparently all-absorbing topic was that of Dicky's work—the illustrations he made of the books of noted authors, and the magazine covers for which he was getting a favorable and well-earned reputation. I was not surprised to hear him say just before she took her leave:

"You don't know how grateful I am to you. I hardly dared to ask you."

Miss Lincoln laughed with patent girlish enjoyment of his trepidation which she evidently considered genuine. But I could have told her that Dicky, wishing the model of an august Victorian royal matron for one of his drawings, would have gone to the steps of England's throne without a tremor, and asked Queen Mary to pose for him.

"It is I who should be grateful," she said prettily, but there was a subtle arrogance in her apparent humility, or at least so I fancied. "I shall be so thrilled. When do you wish to begin the drawing?"

"As soon as possible," Dicky returned. "Would it be convenient for me to run over tomorrow morning about eleven?"

"That will suit me perfectly," she said. "What do you want me to wear and where do you plan to make the drawing, with what background, I mean?"

Dicky's reply was prompt. I knew that he had every detail already planned in his mind.

"I want you to stand by the sundial against the background of larches, with one hand resting upon Fedor's head."

Miss Lincoln paled perceptibly.

"Oh, but I couldn't do that," she said. "I don't want to have Fedor in the picture."

Skin, core and blanch the kidneys in salt water for a half hour, then in boiling water for two hours. Split open, rinse and dry-skewer so they lie flat. Dip in melted butter, dust with pepper and salt and broil, turning once, for about eight minutes. Serve on a hot dish garnished with toast sippets, parsley and lemon quarters. Chutney is good served with this dish.

CONSTIPATION PREYS ON HEALTH

You can overcome it with ALL-BRAN

IF YOU are troubled with constipation, read Mrs. Hogan's letter below. It came to us unsolicited—a message of relief to every sufferer:

February 12, 1927

"I want to tell you how much good your ALL-BRAN has done me. It surely can't be beat for constipation. I have tried every kind of medicine and never in my whole life have been relieved until one of my neighbors told me to try bran. So I bought a box and read about your ALL-BRAN and thought I would see what it would do—and it surely did help me. I will never be without it in the house again."

MRS. JOSEPH HOGAN,
1215 Clay St., Topeka, Kansas.

Constipation is almost universal. The cause of more than forty diseases. Dizziness, aching backs, circled eyes, bad complexions, are only a few of its symptoms.

Guard against it. Start tomorrow eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Guaranteed. Doctors recommend it.

A healthful cereal. Serve ALL-BRAN with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Sprinkle it into soups. Use it in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Baby Must Have Water as Well as Milk

TAKING care of a baby is one of the most exacting jobs in all the world. You may think it is hard to run a farm, or operate a drug store, or practice law. But I give you my word it is harder work to take care of one husky infant than it is to do all these other things combined.

I should pity a young mother if I thought only of what she has to do. But God is good. There is a reward of satisfaction in motherhood that is above every other human reward. Seeing the baby grow up and develop into useful citizenship is joy unspeakable.

My duties carry me here and there about the country. I spend many hours on railroad trains. It is a common eperience to see a couple traveling with two or three young children.

Who is it holds the tired head and finds a new form of play for a restless child? Who prepares the feeding for the baby and supplies a lunch for another hungry mouth?

It is the mother, of course. Poor papa sits about, feeling and looking as helpless and out of place as a rabbit at a wedding.

Every mother has an exacting and difficult job. It takes brains, energy, tirelessness, sleeplessness, resourcefulness and every other good quality to do it well.

The young mother with her first baby is in a very trying and exhausting position. She has so much to learn, poor soul!

I have heard my own mother tell how scared she was over the gurgles and funny sounds that were uttered by her first baby. On many occasions she was sure, she said, that the youngster was about to die.

Everybody is touched by the crying of a babe. It always means something, and the young mother has to learn just what such kind of cry indicates, so far as her baby is concerned.

Sometime we will consider at length what the cry of a baby may mean. Today I want to remind you that it may mean that the baby is thirsty.

Nobody can have good health without taking lots of water to drink. The wastes of the body are carried away and the more water we take, the more readily are these poisons eliminated.

The food we take is of no value to us unless it is dissolved and made ready for absorption into the blood. Without water we would dry up and die.

Many a baby has gone thirsty because the young mother was never told how necessary it is to give the infant a drink every once in a while. Bear that in mind, dear mother.

Of course the food of the nursing baby is a fluid. But don't get the idea that on this account there need be no plain water to drink. Water is about as important as the milk.

Have a sterilized bottle holding freshly prepared and cooled water which has been boiled. Give a little of this at frequent intervals between feedings.

Now you won't have to say "No!" when they plead for a drink "like Daddy's"

YOU can't blame children for wanting a drink "like daddy's"—especially if they are among the thousands who don't like milk. It's natural for them to want what grown-ups have. And in these chill Spring days, a hot drink is really needed. But of course caffein beverages are out of the question. If there was only a hot, delicious drink that was safe for children!

There is! Instant Postum made with milk! Thousands of mothers serve it already—schools every where have made it part of the noon-day lunch.

So easy to make!

Just put a teaspoonful of Instant Postum in a cup, pour in hot (not boiled) milk, stir and sweeten to taste—this wonderful drink is ready! A drink with a rich, smooth flavor that children love—even children who do not like milk alone. And a drink that's so good for them! The wholesome elements of whole wheat and bran, plus the body-building nourishment of milk. A drink without a trace of caffein, or any other drug!

Surprise your children tomorrow! Order Instant Postum from your grocer—serve it, made with milk! And try it yourself—made either with milk or with boiling water. Better still, give Postum a thorough test—make it your mealtime drink for thirty days! Then judge its value! See what a difference it can make in the way you sleep—in the way you feel—in the way you look!

NANCY ANN MILLER, product of the virile great Northwest, with its snow-capped peaks and towering evergreens, read of India!

She read of the Taj, at Agra, that perfect bubble of snow white marble, man's most perfect tribute to the memory of a woman. It was built by the Shah Jehan for his favorite wife, Noor Mahal. It took 20,000 men 22 years to build it. It cost about $15,000,000.

All women who have read of the Taj have been touched by the beautiful tribute of a husband to the memory of his wife. All the world has stood in admiration of the delicate tracery and jewel encrused beauty of the structure.

Nancy Ann Miller, like many of us, read of the regal splendors of India's rulers. Their wealth in jewels! Their pageantry of royal elephants!

But with most of us the dreams of India end when we close our travel book or return home from a world cruise.

But Nancy Ann Miller met a Maharajah—an ex-Maharajah, to be exact. For he had to abdicate in favor of his son when there was too much talk about his favorite dancing girl!

Nancy Ann Miller gave up her God, her people, her country—all for love, they say!

She is now the third wife of the ex-Maharajah! The other two wives and the favorite also live in the ex-Maharajah's palace.

The wedding was all that Nancy Ann Miller dreamed of when she read of India's splendor in her Seattle home!

But I am inclined to think that it will not be long until her now Highness Maharanee Devi Sharmista Holkar will be sitting in India sighing for Seattle.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Tuesday, April 3

And the thoughts of men are widened with the process of the Sun.—TENNYSON.

THIS day's astrological testimonies point to new considerations in a business way, involving possible secret and sinister machinations, which are likely to come into the open bringing benefits in money as well as advancement in position. But beware the secret and sinister and be prepared to resist obstacles and treachery—this in domestic and business affairs.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of excellent opportunity, negotiating with large concerns, but possibly through secrecy or strategem. There may be an element of the sinister, but this should be brought into the open to great financial advantage and bettered position.

A child born on this day should be equipped for places of secret and diplomatic relations, and should attain personal advancement, and financial success through its talents in this direction. Its domestic, social and romantic affiliations should be interesting.

"Loveliness of Skin absolutely essential" says E. MASON HOPPER director for PATHÉ DE MILLE

"Beauty may be 'only skin deep' but nothing is more essential than the loveliness of a girl's skin. A star's public and director demand that beauty first of all. To survive the test of the merciless close-up her skin must be genuinely exquisite—no art can fake its beauty."—E. Mason Hopper

Young Ralston Hemsley of Syracuse, O., is one of the few recruits who will stick with the Pirates this season. He has won his spurs with his fine work in camp, and will be the understudy of Earl Smith and Johnny Gooch, Bill Haeffner having been sent to the New York Giants by the waiver route. Hemsley came up to the Pirates from Frederick, Md., in the Blue Ridge League. He is a fine, alert catcher and is developing as a hitter.

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

IF TEX RICKARD were speaking seriously instead of ballyhooing in saying that he may hold the proposed Gene Tunney-Tom Heeney title fight in London, it would mean that England was to get the first world championship heavyweight contest ever decided within her boundaries.

Tex Rickard.

It is true that there were many great battles there in the old days for the heavyweight championship of England, and also a number of international combats, but there was none with the world title involved.

IN FACT, it was not until after Joe Goss came to America from England in 1873 and Ryan defeated him on a foul in 27 rounds, that there was any such thing as a world championship in the big division.

Because Paddy Ryan defeated Goss, the fight taking place at Collier Station, W. Va., by the way, and John L. Sullivan then beat Ryan, old followers of Sullivan still contend that the victory over Ryan made John L. champion of the world, instead of merely champion of America.

When Jim Corbett, after taking the championship from Sullivan, beat Charley Mitchell in three rounds at Jacksonville, Fla., in 1893, there was no longer any flaw in the title, as Mitchell held the championship of England at the time and America and England were the only countries that gave any consideration to fighters or made champions in those days.

SINCE that time not one heavyweight championship fight has been held in England.

Two have taken place outside the United States, however. The first was the affair in which Jack Johnson won the title from Tommy Burns in 14 rounds on December 25, 1908, in Sydney, N. S. W., and the other was the encounter in which Johnson lost the honors to Jess Willard in 26 rounds on April 5, 1915, in Havana, Cuba.

Gene Tunney.

But England should not waste time building air castles over Rickard's remarks. That's just one of the cute little business ways that Tex has when he starts to ballyhoo a fight.

It is fairly safe to assume that when Tunney and Heeney came together late in July, the Yankee Stadium in New York will be the scene of the meeting.

RICKARD appears to realize that this is one fight that certainly will need a great deal of ballyhooing, for at present it looks on paper like the most lopsided match in many years for the heavyweight title.

Tunney ought to slice Heeney into ribbons and hardly ever get hit in return. The Australian is just a tough, rugged, plodding fighter, who keeps walking slowly into his opponent, and who cannot do any effective work except at close range. Fighters of that type are made to Tunney's order. He has no trouble plastering such an opponent at long range or cutting him to pieces as he comes in. He has too much boxing skill and ring generalship to make it possible to figure even a remote outside chance for the rushing Antipodean.

EX-CHAMPS LOSE IN OLYMPIC TEST

ST. LOUIS, April 2.—The Heidelberg Soccer Club of Pittsburgh, former National amateur champions, was defeated by the St. Louis Olympian Club here yesterday, in an Olympic elimination test, 2 to 1. Two goals by Rudge, inside left forward of the local team, gave St. Louis the victory after Pittsburgh had counted the first goal of the game, 17 minutes after play had started on a kick by Buff Donnelli, inside right forward.

It was a hard fought game all the way and the defensive tactics

CAN it be that Pitcher Vic Aldridge is afflicted with sinus trouble in connection with his failure to join the Giants, to which club he was traded by the Pirates for Burleigh Grimes?

"They can't sign us!"

NEW CASTLE is all worked up over its Earl Dilks, who is sticking up among the leaders in C. C. Pyle's cross-country Marathon race and grabbing himself a flock of headlines daily. In fact, so steamed up are the natives that they've formed a Dilks Booster organization and are willing to bet Earl will beat the field, not even excepting our Bill Busch of Pittsburgh, who is holding back somewhere in the field.

The boosters have raised money to keep Dilks going in the race and care for his wife and five young children while he's making the Big Try. When the folks talk with their pocketbooks they mean business.

DILKS is a B. & O. Railroad fireman and got into the running game years ago when a doctor advised him to pedal for his health.

The slowed-down Jack Dempsey was a mark for the lightly-moving, cleverly boxing and hard-countering Gene Tunney in both of their battles. This picture of a moment in their second clash, at Chicago, last summer, is likely to be repeated when Tunney defends his title against Tom Heeney of New Zealand in July in the match just closed by Tex Rickard. Heeney, slow, solidly built and a plodder, figures to keep moving in and Tunney to slash him him at will with his left.

Weighing-in photo reveals the stocky build of the challenger. He is a veritable human rock from which the punches of his opponents rebound. But a boxer as clever and intelligent as Tunney should smother him with punches as he comes in close. Take a peek at the picture on the right above of Heeney in action against Jack Sharkey, who held him to a draw in 12 rounds recently. Heeney is set in his tracks and Sharkey is spearing him with his left. If Sharkey can do that, what will it be possible for Tunney to do against Tom?

How Tunney, Heeney Compare For Bout

Kayo Seen In Bout Tonight

IF THE Jack Katkish-Rudy Ceder return bout in the Motor Square ring tonight is anything like their first meeting, the boxing commission had better see that it has a referee in the ring who knows his arithmetic.

For Ceder was on the floor three times for counts in that other clash and just managed to stick it out until the finish and also had his opponent down and dangerously near a kayo at one stage. One of those Chicago referees who are slow on the count would feel like a stepchild in a brawl like that.

The winner tonight has been promised a bout with Jack Zivic or some other big shot in the class and that means heavier dough than they have been accustomed to dragging down. It goes without saying that both will be winging for a knockout.

BRUINS, RANGERS TIE IN GROUP FINALS

NEW YORK, April 2.—(AP.)—The Boston Bruins and New York Rangers, rivals in the playoff series for the Stanley Hockey Cup of the National League, struggled to a one-all tie in the first game of the American group finals here last night.

The clubs left for Boston for the second game of the series on even terms. Total goals for the two games will determine the American team to meet the international group survivors for the world's professional hockey championship. The initial clash between the Canadiens and Maroons in Montreal also resulted in a tie, 2-all.

Last night's fray saw 60 minutes of torrid hockey without a score until the final period. Both goals came at the outset of the session, Frank Boucher, Ranger center, connecting with a pass from behind the net to beat Hal Winkler for the first counter. Both Capt. Bill Cook and Bun Cook, who participated in a melee behind the Bruin goal, were given assists.

Seventy-two seconds later a three-man Bruin rush tied the score, Harry Oliver, right winger, shooting the puck past Lorne Chabot. Perry Galbraith, left winger, who engineered the play, and Frank Frederickson, who intercepted Galbraith's pass and in turn relayed the rubber to Oliver, were given assists by the official scorer.

The game brought the local hockey season to a close. If the Rangers trade which sent Kiki Cuyler to the Cubs, has made the Pittsburgh infield, in the opinion of Bush.

Further reason for Bush's optimism is his statement that "the Waners will be as good as ever and Comorosky will be an improved player." The Pirate skipper also regards the trade which brought Burleigh Grimes to the Pirates and sent Vic Aldridge to the Giants as beneficial to Pittsburgh. Grimes, Kremer, Hill, Miljus, Meadows, Dawson, Fussell and Bartholomew are expected to shoulder the pitching burden during the season.

The Pirates today steamed into Phoenix for their last exhibition game with the Chicago Cubs. Hometown friends of George Grantham, Pirate first baseman, will turn out en masse to do him honor.

KREMER TO FIRING LINE

Manager Bush expects to start Remy Kremer in the fifth meeting of the two big-time entries. Guy Bush may oppose the National League champions.

That line "National League Champions" may sound very sour to Pittsburgh readers today in the face of the fine shellacking handed our boys by the ambitious Cubs. The fourth and last clash of the series at Wrigley Field in Los Angeles was won by the Bruins 7 to 5, the Pittsburghers, therefore, losing all four battles staged in the famed metropolis of California and the Pacific coast.

Baseball in the far West received an entirely new impetus in the four whirlwind engagements featuring the big-time teams, the spectacles reaching a record climax in yesterday's game which attracted upward of 25,000 fans. Of this number more than 5,000 were women and girls, who were admitted free.

Pittsburgh could take a leaf from the Los Angeles book in the interest of the national game. The Los Angeles folks may be said to be in the primer class in regards to baseball, but they are far ahead of Pittsburgh owners in looking

Johnson Not Victim Of Tuberculosis

WASHINGTON, April 2.—(INS.)—Reports that Walter Johnson, for 20 years the speed ball ace of the American League, is suffering from tuberculosis were denied today by his physician, Dr. H. M. Kaufman.

Johnson was brought to Emergency Hospital here last week from Florida. He has lost nearly 30 pounds in weight, and was taken from the train in a wheel chair.

"All examinations and laboratory tests have failed to reveal the slightest indication of tuberculosis," said Dr. Kaufmann. "The tests have shown, however, an infection of the colon and kidneys, resulting from the poisons of influenza. It is not uncommon. With rest and treatment he should recover before long."

Miss Wills, United States champion tennis player, was able to win from Neer because of her placements and mid-court play. Neer made many double faults and those contributed to his defeat.

Tom Heeney.

Eastward from California, and this afternoon will find the Bucs hooking up with the Cubs at Phoenix, Ariz., in the final game of their series.

After today, the Corsairs will be given just one more test under the acid of major league opposition. That is scheduled for Friday in Dallas, Tex., against the Detroit American League club. Preceding the clash with the Tigers, the Rovers will spend tomorrow traveling and will meet the San Antonio club of the Texas League in San Antonio Wednesday and Thursday.

The Tigers in the meanwhile are to meet the Waco team in Waco, Tex., today and tomorrow, and the Dallas club in Dallas on Wednesday and Thursday.

George Moriarity's players have been favored with so much hot weather that they are reported as actually hoping for cooler spots and their own manager admits that he never saw a club in better condition for the beginning of a pennant race. Evidently the Bucs will be hard pressed Friday.

Ralston Hemsley.

THE Pittsburgh club must be convinced that there really is a Santa Claus after all, following the action of the New York National League club in coughing up the waiver price for Catcher Bill Haeffner, who did not cost the Pirate owners anything more than trainfare, and who did not show enough in the workouts in California to indicate that after his long lay-off he would be of the slightest value to any major league outfit.

Despite the acquisition of Frank Hogan and the high hopes that he has Johnny Cummings, the North Side boy, this year, it is evident McGraw is again in desperate straits in the catching department.

Otherwise he would hardly grab at so poor a prospect as Haeffner, who, though still a good receiver, has demonstrated in the Pirate camp that he cannot hit a lick.

THE release of Haeffner was not required to apprise Pittsburgh fans of the fact that Ralston Hemsley had made good with the Bucs and that Manager Bush had decided to keep him. That had been evident in reports from the coast for some time.

That Hemsley is to be retained as a third catcher was shown by Bush's action in putting him behind the bat for the entire game against the Cubs Saturday. However, it may depend upon Hemsley's showing more hitting strength than he has shown. It does not mean that Pete Scott has been dropped from the reckoning in the batting department and that the receiving trio will be made up of Smith, Gooch and Hemsley. A catcher with a batting punch is needed and there may be a change in the situation before long as a result of the club's efforts to get such a man.

Johnny Layton.

THREE-CUSHION billiards will claim the attention of cue fans again for the next two weeks, as the national championship tournament is scheduled to open in Chicago tonight.

One former Pittsburgh resident is among the entrants in the person of Charles (Cowboy) Weston, and the list also includes two men who formerly represented this city in the big National Three-Cushion League in Otto Reiselt and Gus Copulos. Besides, there is Earl Lookabaugh, who was Pittsburgh's representative in the National Pocket Billiard League.

The other entrants are Willie Hoppe, Johnny Layton, Augie Kieckhefer, Allen Hall and Tiff Denton.

The leading four players at the finish will qualify for the world's championship tournament to be held next fall.

Hoppe, Reiselt, Hall and Layton are being picked for those four positions before the tourney opens.

HILL

he acted like a sick man.

Hill's lame back is the cause of his trouble. He was much discouraged as the Pirates left California on the journey eastward. His condition is such that Manager Bush may decide to send Hill to Linesville to undergo treatment from Guy Greene.

Carmen had trouble with his back in the early part of the 1927 race. After taking treatment from Greene he won eight games in a row and was a big factor in the pennant success of the club.

Sunny Joe Cronin is on his way to Kansas City after shaking hands in farewell with his Pirate mates. In more than one way Cronin is satisfied to get with a club that offers a fair chance for regular play, and Kansas City is considered a big league city in many respects.

According to baseball rules, the Pittsburgh management could not put Cronin out on option again. The law allows only two options and Joe has been out twice.

The Pirates will be in a position to deal for Cronin later, it is believed, as the Kansas City owners are said to be friendly with Barney Dreyfuss.

Cubs Capture Fourth

after those who can do a lot for the sport.

World series reflections were upon many a Pirate booster as the Bears pounced on the Pirates for four in a row. And once more Hazen S. Cuyler was in bold relief. Contrasting the bench part played by Cuyler in the recent unpleasantness with the Yanks, the popular athlete was in the spotlight in the four games so far completed by the Pirates and Cubs. Cuyler figured in each of the four successes, his homer in the closing game in Los Angeles putting the Cubs out in front with a two-run lead in the first inning. Cuyler struck his ninth circuit swat of the training season off Burleigh Grimes with Shortstop English on the runways.

The sun that cheered the Pirates as they landed in the West remained throughout the four games. The colorful throng in attendance at the Sunday festival filled the park to capacity, many hundreds standing up. To add flavor to the general scene, Boss McCarthy sent out his famous ace of the mound—Charlie Root—to oppose Grimes. Burleigh stayed around for five frames before giving way to Erwin Brame, Jersey City recruit. Root, who like several other Chicago pitchers, is near his best form, faced the Pirate attack for seven frames.

Sheriff Fred Blake of West Virginia relieved Root.

The Pirates rang up a heavy total of hits, but they performed like twilight leaguers on the bases. Lloyd Waner was caught on the sacks three times, although the wee marvel was a feature of the game with three clean hits, a walk and another drive that required a shoestring catch to turn back the speeder. Manager Bush seemed to be partly responsible in getting Lloyd caught at the plate in a rally of the seventh inning. Donie was coaching at third as Lloyd walked. Adams doubled to left and Bush failed to stop Lloyd at third. With nobody out, the thing to do was to play safe.

George Grantham was given permission to go early to Phoenix, and Joe Harris performed at first base in the last game.

While the new styles are represented, there is very little of the radical or "loud" to be found in the selection. Good styles, tailored from sturdy, serviceable fabrics in pleasing colors.

Two and three button models are shown in either one or two-trouser garments. Blues, greys, tans, or browns—and a fine selection of unobtrusive mixtures, feature the assortment. There is richness in the colors. The fabrics are worsteds, unfinished worsteds, cheviots, cassimeres, double-twists, serges and herringbones.

BRITONS MAY STAGE TITLE FIGHT

No, a Night Club Is Not a Policeman's Billy

THINK TOM ABLE TO PUT GO ACROSS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 2.—(AP.)—Despite cold water thrown on the idea by boxing experts, there is a distinct possibility that the next heavyweight championship fight will be held in London, according to Charley Harvey, manager of Tom Heeney, the chosen contender.

Heeney, a New Zealander and a British subject, now is in England on a visit, and Harvey himself recently was there looking over the field. The manager said he was fully convinced that the nationality of Heeney, coupled with the fact that he is the first British subject in 30 years to be given a chance at the heavyweight crown, would put the fight across in England.

With something like 14 weeks remaining before the fight "some time in July, Gene Tunney said he would not start intensive training for a month or two, although he will begin regular gym work in a few days.

BRITONS WILLING

LONDON, April 2.—(AP.)—Live negotiations to hold the Tunney-Heeney heavyweight championship bout at Wembley Stadium have been in progress for some time, officials of the big outdoor arena have stated.

Only last week, Bernard Mortimer, prominent British sportsman, was in London discussing proposals for staging the affair here.

"I am pretty certain that if Tex Rickard decides to come to London with the fight, it will be at Wembley," Mortimer told the officials.

HEENEY PROMISES FIGHT

PARIS, April 2.—"Tunney will know he has been in a fight." That was Tom Heeney's cryptic comment today when he was asked here what he thought of the battle in which he will meet Gene Tunney for the latter's world heavyweight title in July.

His British manager, Bernard Mortimer, was more voluble.

"He'll beat Tunney," he said. "They said he couldn't beat the fellows in the eliminations, but he disposed of the lot, and Tunney will be just another fight for him."

PRINCIPALS TIED UP

NEW YORK, April 2.—New York boxing circles understand Tex Rickard has signed Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney to contracts covering their ring services through 1929.

Heeney is understood to have signed a contract for the next two years with Rickard and Tunney a contract extending throughout the year.

THREE AMES MATMEN SEEK OLYMPIC BERTHS

At least three members of this year's Iowa State wrestling team are conceded good chances of making the American Olympic team following the results of the midwest A. A. U. meet at Iowa City. In addition to this year's crop, Harold Boyvey, former national 123 pound titleholder, and Ralph Prunty, the present national champion in the 145-pound division, will try for Olympic honors.

The three men credited by Iowa State sports followers with having good chances to place either first or second in the Olympic wrestling tryouts in Grand Rapids, Mich., in July, are Art Holding, national 125-pound champion; Capt. Clair Grooms, runner-up in the A. A. U. last year, and Harold Higgins, 118-pounder. All three men were victors in their classes in the mid-west meet.

of Pittsburgh held firmly against numerous St. Louis shots until Rudge finally broke through with the tying score when he headed in a shot on a pass from Berger. Rudge's winning goal came three minutes later and unexpectedly when he intercepted a shot that had hit the upright of an effort from the toe of Cronin, inside right.

Heidelberg was handicapped in the second half due to a heavy wind which faced them and prevented good teamwork. However, they battled stubbornly and only the great play of the St. Louis fullbacks, Ducker and Kelly, and an occasional remarkable save by Goalie Hamm prevented further Pittsburgh scoring.

St. Louis was on the aggressive throughout the second half while Heidelberg, with one goal to the good, was content to take things easy.

When Rudge counted his first goal both teams went after each other vigorously in an attempt to put across a deciding marker. Rudge's second shot added more fuel to the aggressive St. Louis machine and from then on until the final whistle they held the edge, Pittsburgh fighting back gamely, but being unable to rival the local team's speed and accurate kicking.

Buff Donnelli and his brother Buck, who substituted for Bill McDonald in the second period, stood out for the visitors. Fred narrowly missed several good shots which were either a bit wide of the St. Louis mesh or were thwarted by the St. Louis goalie.

Valiam and Matthews, fullbacks, also played a stellar game for the losers, starring chiefly on the defense. The lineup:

St. Louis—2.		Heidelberg—1.
Hamm	G.	Courtley
Kelly	L.	Henderson
Kucker	R.F.	Vallant
Claeys	L.F.	Matthews
J. Kane	C.H.	Stengel
Chartrand	H.	Jones
Delaney	R.H.	Grandy
Hilker	O.L.	Grill
Rudge	I.L.	McCosky
Neagle-Berger	C.	O'D'n'l-F.D'n'll
Cronin	I.R.	A. Donnelli
Kortum	O.R.	Chappel

Goals—A. Donnelli, Rudge 2.
Time of periods—45 minutes.
Referee—Robert E. Murphy.

FIGHTING MARKS GAME

Everything went wrong in Western Pennsylvania soccer circles yesterday, the sad blow of the Heidelberg defeat at the hands of the St. Louis Olympic representatives, coming on top of the fact the Pittsburgh soccer team staged a riot on a small scale with the German club at Turner Park, made things take on a gloomy look.

The junior game at Heidelberg, played on a sticky field, found Heidelberg winning by a 1 goal to 0 score when the juniors from up Millers Run played tag with two penalty kicks and missed both.

The affair at Turner Park smacked of a Donnybrook fair day. Every five minutes of the game saw a fight springing up somewhere. It seems as if the West Penn will have to step in and set somebody down.

Frey, the German fullback, was again in trouble and had the referee ordered this man out of the game early, trouble might have been avoided. The score was 2 goals to 1 in favor of Pittsburgh when the game was finished.

As it was, the game dragged through 65 minutes of bull fighting and finally Referee Lownie called the game with 25 minutes to go.

SPEAKING of SPORTS

by HARRY KECK
SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

town is back of him because of the reams of publicity he is getting for it. The slogan of the boosters is "Run, Dilks, run!"

Donations have been made to tide over his family and the boosters are going to run shows and other events to raise money for the cause. Contributions are being received from persons in all walks of life and even the school children are giving a penny apiece to the fund, according to information that reaches me. When a town gets behind a guy like that, how can he help but keep on trying for it?

By the way, what is Pittsburgh doing for Bill Busch? His dad has been sending him money to help him pull through.

THE United States begins its bid to regain the Davis Cup this week-end when it meets Mexico in the first round of the trials at Mexico City. Bill Tilden and a crew of youngsters will play in the matches. They include John Hennessey, Wilmer Allison and Arnold Jones. Junior Coen, 16-year-old school boy of Kansas City, is along as an alternate, but likely will be kept on the sidelines, although he's the most promising kid of the bunch. The cup committee doesn't want to burn him out, because of his extreme youth, but is anxious to have him get the experience for future use.

In the tryouts for the team at Augusta, Ga., recently, in which such good players as Frank Shields, Johnny Doeg, George Lott, Jr., Edward Chandler and Wray Brown were sidetracked, young Coen was the most brilliant player on the courts. He played three singles matches and won all of them, against Doeg, Jones and Chandler. They didn't give him a chance against Tilden. Seemingly the kid is the successor to Vin Richards as the young phenom of tennis.

IN THE current issue of the Pitt Weekly, it is charged that only personal feeling between Tilden and Eddie Jacobs of Baltimore, a student at Pitt and a member of its tennis squad and a star on its freshman basketball team during the season just closed, kept Eddie from competing in the trials. Under a heading, "Tilden Spites Jacobs in Davis Cup Tryouts," the Weekly says:

"Since Bill Tilden has been elected captain of the United States Davis Cup tennis team it is not surprising that Eddie Jacobs, star Pitt freshman racqueteer, who tied Tilden in a doubles match several weeks ago, has not been invited to Florida for the Davis Cup tryouts.

"Jacobs was invited to the tryouts before the new officers of the tennis body were elected. Now that the new regime has come in with Tilden at the helm Jacobs' name does not appear on the list of eligible candidates. It is likely that there will be a team tryout for the Olympics and it is possible that Eddie will then get his chance.

"Wilbur F. Coen of Kansas City ranked much lower than Jacobs in the national juniors, but was invited to the Davis tryouts. This readily proves the partiality of Tilden and strengthens the enmity between the two stars."

I AM in receipt of a copy of a St. Louis bookmaker's winter book on the Kentucky Derby in which the odds against the field are jotted down in pencil. It is very interesting. It quotes Reigh Count as the favorite at odds of 5 to 1, with 2 to 1 for place and 2 to 2 for show. Sortie is second choice at 10 to 1, 5 to 1 and 2½ to 1, and four are quoted at 15 to 1 to win. They are Anita Peabody, Misstep, Nassak and Victorian. The biggest odds are 1,000 to 1 and they are quoted on Edgewater, Frank G. Menke, Harry Beal, Hush Dear, Mint Grass, Rumpelstiltskin, Spanker and Yesanno.

Frank G. Menke is one of the colts belonging to Jack Dempsey and is named after the sports writer of the same name. Menke was in town a few weeks ago and was telling me he had wired Dempsey that the horse was a plug and he was considering sueing Dempsey for libel, but Dempsey still has an abiding confidence in the ability of the animal to come through.

Jack Higgins, winner of the recent Louisiana Derby, is rated at 40 to 1 in the future book.

PHILADELPHIANS BUY SINCLAIR'S RACE HORSES

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—(AP.)—James Irvin, a Philadelphia contractor and a Republican ward leader announced that he and another Philadelphian have purchased the racing stable of Harry F. Sinclair.

Irvin declined to reveal the name of his associate or to give details of the transaction.

LOTT CAPTURES S. A. TITLE

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 2.—(AP.)—George Lott of Chicago, ranking No. 3 player of the nation, added to the South Atlantic singles tennis crowd to his titles when Tamio Abe, Japanese champion, defaulted in the finals of the tournament, because of an infected foot.

Abe, paired with Frank X. Shields, New York, national junior champion, trimmed Lott and Johnny Doeg, Stanford University star, for the doubles title, 6-3, 6-5, 6-0.

The Japanese champion, in declining to meet Lott, said the doubles match had caused irritation of three infected toes on one foot and he was unable to play.

Another Corbett In Ring

By FRANK G. MENKE.

CALIFORNIA has produced another Corbett of the heavyweight variety—Tom is his first name. And plenty of the folks have a notion that if he's not shoved along too fast he may add modern luster to an already illustrious ring name.

For quite a few moons there have come whisperings out of the "Golden Gate" region concerning Corbett. Finally Frank Churchill, who piloted Pancho Villa to the crest, who manages Tod Morgan, a champion, and who has handled others who became great ones in pugdom, was coaxed out to San Francisco to look him over.

"I went there more to be obliging than anything else," writes Churchill. "I wasn't excited about Corbett, despite all I'd heard concerning him. For this is one of those hysterical eras in the game where everybody that sees any big fellow land even one solid smash, or duck one hefty blow figures he has seen a coming champion.

"As I've said, I went out there just to please some fellows who asked me to take a look at the kid. And I brought him back to Chicago. I'm not saying I have a champion in the making, but I am satisfied that there is a boy who looks just about as good as any youngster I've looked at in many years.

HAS RING BALANCE

"The one thing that impressed me most about him is that he has ring balance. Now that's something that very few fellows in the fight game stress, or regard as important. To me it is one of the most vital of assets. Tunney has it, Loughran has it, Dempsey had it in his earlier years.

"I guess some folks would call it surefootedness, plus poise and calmness. Corbett always seems to be in a position to hit. He never seems to be off balance; never flustered mentally or physically. And that is something that belongs only to great fighters—something that Jim Corbett, the boxing peer of them all had in abundance.

"Tom Corbett has a left hand that is lightning fast. His right is improving all the time. All he needs is to learn the knack of snapping it from short range to become rated as a murderous hitter. However, he really doesn't need to do much apologizing in a socking way, because he has knocked out 20 men in 35 fights.

"When I say he's the fastest big man I've seen in 10 years I mean that as a truthful statement—not as a ballyhoo for a man I'm handling. I've never tried to bunk the public about any fighter of mine and I'm not going to start now.

In 35 fights Corbett has lost but twice. The first time was a decision defeat in the second or third mixup of his career. His only other loss was to Armand Emanuel, the San Francisco whirlwind. Losing to Emanuel was no disgrace to the 21-year-old Corbett, for Emanuel rates right now as a man who could come close to outscoring every heavyweight in the game.

IS APT PUPIL

"Corbett at 21 is awfully young for a heavyweight. But he's an apt pupil, improving all the time. He's rugged and strong and, like Jack Dempsey in his early days, he loves to fight. And he's ambitious.

"When a youngster combines speed, cleverness, gameness, a punch in either hand, youth and ambition—well, he's destined to get somewhere in any athletic endeavor he makes. And when one remembers that Corbett is close to 6 feet, weighs around 173 and is still growing, there's plenty of reason to hope that in another year or two he'll be a full-fledged heavyweight—and a dangerous one for any man that faces him.

"I've brought the kid East to give him the chance that anyone deserves who has made a record such as his. I am not making any definite predictions as to what he'll do, but if he gets a shot at Sekyra or Lomski or even at the Loughrans or the Delaneys I wouldn't be surprised if Tom Corbett surprised plenty of folk who hardly know he's fistically alive at this time."

U. S. Protests Olympic Plans

PHILADELPHIA, April 2—(AP.)—Protests have been made by the United States and Great Britain to the Dutch Olympic committee against the plan to hold Olympic rowing races on a canal where not more than two crews can compete in each heat, it was learned today.

It was first arranged to race on the Amstel River, Amsterdam, but in looking over the course the Dutch officials found that the river had a slight turn and they decreed the course must be straightaway.

In the search for a straight course the narrow canal was found, and though it would hold only two crews it was selected.

"The crookedness of the Amstel," said Lawson Robertson, principal trainer of United States Olympic athletes, "may not interfere with the course, but the Dutch officials seem to think it does. Boat races have been held on the Amstel River for years and all the boat houses are located there."

MARR PHILLIPS, FORMER MAJOR LEAGUER, DIES

Funeral services for Marr Phillips, 70, major league baseball star in the late 80's, who died yesterday afternoon, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the chapel of Herman & Son, 707 East Ohio street, North Side.

Phillips was born in old Allegheny City. He began his baseball career with Erie in 1876, and was with the Pittsburgh and Detroit clubs in 1885. He later played for Rochester and Hamilton, Ont. He is survived by one brother, Joe Phillips, and one sister, Mrs. Jane E. Herman.

First-Round Lineup Fixed

NEW YORK, April 2.—(INS.)—Advices reaching the Davis Cup Committee here indicate that William T. Tilden, captain and czar of the American Davis Cup team, is routing the team into a barnstorming tour which will take in the entire country from coast to coast.

Tilden is carrying on negotiations now for two "exhibition" dates with others projected to follow. The most immediate is a trip to Dallas, Tex., for a series of exhibition matches to take place before the first-round Davis cup match with Mexico next week. Big Bill also is negotiating for a trip to California for a number of exhibitions.

The Davis cup committee has also been advised of the tentative lineup of the American Davis cup team in the matches with Mexico, as follows:

It is planned that Tilden will engage in two matches, the first singles and in the doubles. His opponent will probably be T. P. Tapia, Mexican star. The second singles for America will be assigned to John Hennessey of Indianapolis, who will probably face Robert Kinsey, champion of Mexico and captain of their team. In the doubles Tilden will be paired with Arnold Jones of Providence against Kinsey and Unda.

New Golf Course To Have Legal 19th Hole

RICHFORD, Vt., April 2—(AP.)—As soon as the frost is out of the ground hereabouts, work will be started on what Francis Ouimet, former national open golf champion, described as the sportiest golf course in the world and the only one in America with a legal "19th hole."

A syndicate of wealthy Boston and Montreal men, headed by Ouimet, Maj. Gen. Malvern-Hill Barnum, U. S. A., retired, and Judge J. Albert Brackett, all of Boston, has purchased 300 acres of land in Richford, the golf course and 60 acres which adjoins the property, but is across the International line in the Province of Quebec. The club house will be erected on Canadian territory.

Loss of Lester Bell Weakens Cards

By IRVING VAUGHAN.

THE dignitaries who control the affairs of the St. Louis Cardinals pulled somewhat of a surprise on the patient old public when Lester Bell was traded to the Braves, but the real surprise now is that nobody has arisen to remark that "there must have been something behind that move."

It has become almost a mania with a certain element to point the finger of suspicion at any and every happening in baseball. With them nothing has been on the level since the eight White Sox threw the world series of 1919, but they are just a bit severe on the guardians of the national pastime.

If one of these skeptics cared to grab a dark lantern and go out in quest of certain little baseball wrongdoings of recent years he might be successful, but it is foolish to argue that every time an outstanding player is suddenly traded that the step was inspired by the desire of a magnate to unload before the storm broke.

NO MYSTERY TO TRADE

When Grover Alexander was dumped overboard for the waiver price in 1926, a move that unquestionably made it possible for St. Louis to win its first world championship, the voice of suspicion wasn't raised because the Chicago club made no attempt to hide the motive. Despite warnings, Alex refused to abide by the club rules against strenuous social activities, so Manager McCarthy tired of it and took drastic steps. All this was explained at the time and the world understood. The owners could help their own racket if they were equally as frank with the cash customers any time a surprise move was necessary. The trouble is that most of the magnates are so heavily steeped in their own importance that they think they can do no wrong.

What was said when Rogers Hornsby was traded to the Braves during the winter? President Stoneham eplained it as a move for the best interests of the Giants. McGraw said nothing and took the attitude that nobody had the right to question him. The dear old public promptly got the notion that Hornsby must have jammed himself in some way.

BELL DEAL HURTS CARDS

The trade of Hazen Cuyler to the Cubs by Pittsburgh was another thing that set the tongue waggers to going. Cuyler is a clean living fellow who probably never had a wrong thought in his head, but he has had to suffer suspicion because Barney Dreyfuss would offer no logical explanation for the transfer. Further injustice was done the player by some official of the Pittsburgh club declaring that the social drinkers no longer would be tolerated. The way this was said indicated Cuyler was included in this clique. He is an abstainer. He may have said some uncomplimentary things about the president and manager of the club, but he was entitled to his opinions.

In giving Bell to the Braves for High and some cash (the latter probably being an afterthought merely to balance the deal in the eyes of the public), the Cardinals didn't help themselves a whit. In fact, they eliminated one of the important cogs in their attack. But that doesn't mean Bell had violated any of the rules laid down by the policeman on the baseball beat. All that Bell did was to let the world and St. Louis know that he didn't want to play there. Neither the club nor the town suited him, so there was only one thing to be done and the officials of the Cardinals did it. They were careful, however, not to let Bell go to a team that wanted him and needed him. That team was Chicago, which would have given more in return than was given by the Braves.

DOANE TO RACE ON CIRCUIT

CLEVELAND, April 2.—Doane, the cyclonic North Carolina gelding that holds the world record of 2:06¾ for 2-year-old trotters over a half-mile track, will make his first appearance on the Grand Circuit this season. He is scheduled to inaugurate a series of stake engagements in the Ohio 2:08 trot at the North Randall meeting here, July 2-7.

As a result of his sensational performances over the twice-around courses, Doane will step into the big time expected to gather considerable glory. He'll have to be right upto snuff to dispose of the company he is destined to meet.

Also out for the rich plums will be such starts as Minia Dillon, 2:02¾; Full Worthy, 2:03; Trumpet, 2:03¼; Kashmir, 2:03½; Dewey McKinney, 2:03½; Cinema, 2:03½; Bob Armstrong, 2:03¾; High Noon, 2:04½; Clara Bascom, 2:05¼; Clayworth, 2:05¼; Tippie Frisco, 2:07¼, and Signal Spring, 2:08¼. There is a world of speed represented in this group.

Doane again will have the capable services of the Wilson (N. C.) reinsman, Cyrus Becker, in the sulky. Becker brought him through his 2 and 3-year-old form. At 2, Doane accounted for six races over the half-mile tracks and last season, was home first on eight occasions. He made his record performance against time at Reading, Pa. At Endicott, N. Y., he set a new race record for 2-year-old trotters over a half-mile track by traveling in 2:07¼. Doane is the property of L. S. Hadley of Wilson.

BOWLING

the five-men championship last night when entries in the final session of this event, failed to improve the 3,037 rolled by the Chicagoans Saturday. This enabled the Tea Shops, of Milwaukee, now known as the Norwesco Malts, to retain the all-time congress record of 3,199 established at Peoria, Ill., last year.

Only four teams were able to pass the 3,000 mark in four weeks. Finishing second and third were the Mineralites, 3,019, and the Bleck's Acme, 3,013.

Other five-men leaders: Trovas, St. Louis, 2,997; Meister Insurance Company, Omaha, 2,969; Consumers and Puritan Malts, Chicago, and Euclid's Arcade, Cleveland, tied for seventh with 2,968; Lake City I. O. O. F., Chicago, 2,965.

The Oh Henry team received $1,000 of the $21,359 offered as prizes in five-men competition. The prizes decrease $50 for each place, the Mineralites receiving $950, and the Acmes $900.

THIRD GAME WORKS CHARM

MANCHESTER, Eng., April 2.—After playing two draws, Huddersfield Town and Sheffield United finally reached a decision here today in a playoff of the semi-finals of the English Football Association cup competition, Huddersfield Town winning, 1 to 0. Blackburn Rovers is the other team in the final.

SOUTHERN NINE DRAWS SCOUTS

It isn't often that a barrage of alluring offers from big league managers breaks over the head of a college ball player. Such was the experience last week of Buck Halloran, second baseman of the Spring Hill College baseball team of Mobile, Ala., generally regarded as one of the strongest collegiate outfits in the South.

Somebody tipped off Ray Cahill, scout of the St. Louis Browns, to take a look at the Spring Hill team, undefeated in two years. Cahill, who in his seven years scouting for the St. Louis American Leaguers has viewed the best college teams from the Atlantic to the Pacific, took a look.

Cahill came back the next day and took another look, and began feeling around in his pockets for contract blanks. "That's one of the best-coached college teams in the country," he remarked. He wanted Buck Halloran to sign a contract on the spot, calling for him to report to the St. Louis Browns after graduation in June. Halloran postponed decision.

As the St. Louis scout was leaving the campus, a wire was coming in from the Montgomery (Ala.) team asking for Halloran's terms. The wires again began humming, and in clicked a telegram from Billy Evans, manager of the Cleveland Indians. The Cleveland pilot had Halloran visit him in New Orleans, where he offered the Spring Hill star an attractive contract. Halloran, however, again postponed decision.

Lottie Schoemmel Sets Endurance Swim Mark

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 2—(AP.)—Apparently little tired by her 32-hour grind, Mrs. Lottie Moore Schoemmel of New York yesterday completed a swim in Deauville pool here that raised the world endurance record one hour.

She entered the water at 9:23 a. m., Saturday, and climbed out at 5:23 p. m., yesterday. The former record of 31 hours, set by Miss Edith Johnson in Black pool, England, stood for more than 47 years. Bill Erickson, who set the American record of 30 hours last summer in Lake George, swam part of the time with her.

Mrs. Schoemmel plans to swim the English Channel in September.

Notre Dame Nine Off To Tour South

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 2.—Sixteen Notre Dame baseball players and Student Manager Bernard F. Zipperer, in charge of Coach Tommy Mills, left today for Fort Benning, Ga., where they begin the two-week spring training trip Tuesday with a series of three games with the Fort Benning College team.

The Irish Southern schedule calls for the playing of 10 games within 11 days. In addition to the opening contests Mill men will play two games each with Louisiana State at Baton Rouge, Loyola at New Orleans, Spring Hill College at Mobile, and one game with Vanderbilt at Nashville, Tenn.

Coach Mills is looking forward to some strenuous contests for his proteges especially with Fort Benning and Spring Hill. These colleges have the ranking nines of the South. However, if the Irish nine plays the bang-up game that it did at the close of its home practice sessions, it should fare well.

Two sons of Big Ed Walsh, coach of the White Sox, lead the Irish staff of hurlers. Ed, Jr., has been pitching winning ball for the Gold and Blue team for three years while Bob, bigger and heavier than his brother, promises to follow his example. Joe Jachym, captain of the basketball five, and Oscar Rust, relief men last year, will take their regular turn on the mound. Two newcomers, Ed Donohue and Frank Buckley, have shown plenty of stuff and will step in with the regulars.

The receiving end of the battery will be held down by John Law and Joe Lordi. Law is a junior but this will be his first year on the team. Both of them have displayed power with the willow and Lordi looks especially promising.

Notre Dame's infield, intact from last season, has been working with the smoothness of a veteran major league quartette. Long John Colerick will be at first base, Capt. Joe Sullivan at second, Joe Schrall at short and Johnny Niemic at third. Gerald Griffin will be the utility man on the tour.

The outfield still presents a problem for Coach Mills who designated Fritz Wilson of Pittsburgh and John (Bull) Poliski, substitutes from last year, and John Moran, a newcomer, for the trip. Wilson and Poliski are heavy hitters, while Moran is a good fielder and covers a lot of ground in quick time.

Notre Dame opens its home schedule April 17 with Kalamazoo College.

CHICAGO GOLF CENTER

The Chicago district includes about 150 golf courses. Olympia Fields alone has four 18-hole courses of championship caliber.

WALKER-HUDKINS BOUT IN MAKING

CHICAGO, April 2.—(AP.)—Jack Kearns, manager of Mickey Walker, world's middleweight champion, has promised Promoter Jim Mullen he will confer with him here Thursday to discuss a probable championship match between Walker and Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska Wildcat.

Mullen is confident he can land the title go for Chicago, July 19. Hudkins, a welterweight, has announced he will join the middleweight class because of his increasing poundage. Mullen also plans to sign Jack McCarthy, of Chicago, and Jackie Fields, of California, for a bout April 9.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 2.—(AP.)—The curb market was irregular and prices inclined to heaviness today, many issues showing rather extensive declines after opening strong. As there was little in the way of news developments, the recession appeared to be the result of continued profit-taking.

Bancitaly resisted selling at noon showed a small net advance. Hoback rose 8 points to a new high at 312, but Safeway Stores lost 2 points and some other chain store issues were similarly weak. A few motors were strong, Ford of Canada advancing 8 points. Copeland Products A, Minneapolis Honeywell Regulator, Procter & Gamble, Stroock & Co. and Western Auto Supply were at new high levels.

Canadian Marconi was under pressure. Casein was pounded down nearly 7 points and some other issues which made substantial gains last week showed losses, among them Carnation Milk, Deere & Co., Adolph Gobel and New Mont Mines.

The utilities were heavy, Electric Bond and Share losing ground after reaching a new high at 49½.

Favorable developments failed to buoy the sagging oils. Vacuum, which plans to increase capitalization with the possibility of a 100 per cent stock dividend, sold off slightly. Pipe Lines also showed small recessions.

BULLS, BEARS PLAY GAME OF SEE-SAW

NEW YORK, April 2—(AP.)—Frequent reversals of price movement took place in today's stock market as control shifted from "bear" to "bull" traders. Opening prices were reactionary, but the market soon headed upward as pools resumed activities on a broad scale and lifted more than two score issues to new peak prices for the year. Marking up of the call money rate from 5 to 5½ per cent following the calling of about $15,000,000 in loans, unsettled the market in the early afternoon.

Radio was again the spectacular feature. Opening 8 points lower at 178, the stock made up its loss before the end of the first hour and then ploughed forward to another new peak at 195½ in the early afternoon. A storm of selling orders suddenly appeared and the stock dipped below 190 again within a few minutes.

Wright Aeronautical jumped nearly 9 points to a new peak at 101½, but reacted several points in the early afternoon selling. Among the many issues to reach new high ground for the year, or longer, were Loew's, Park & Tilford, American Zinc preferred, Curtiss Aeroplane, St. Paul common and preferred, Great Northern preferred, Best & Co., American Ice and American Safety Razor.

Selling pressure was rather persistent against such issues as American International, Allied Chemical, Montgomery-Ward, Sears-Roebuck, General Electric and National Biscuit, all off 2 points or more. General Motors, after selling down to 184 in the early trading, rallied to 187⅝ and then backed down to 185¼.

Stiffening of call money was attributed to the heavy demand for funds in connection with quarterly settlements.

The closing was irregular. The higher call money rate proved a severe handicap. The main trend in the late afternoon was downward. Radio lost most of its 10½-point advantage, Brooklyn Edison was off 4 and International Harvester 6. A number of new favorites were brought out, however, International Paper, Western Maryland and Archer-Daniels Midland showing marked strength. Total sales approximated 2,500,000 shares.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, April 2.—The cotton market opened barely steady today unchanged to 4 points lower, and showed quick net losses of 4 to 10 points under liquidation and local or commission house selling inspired by a favorable view of the weather news.

Liverpool cables were relatively steady, however, and the decline to 18.98c for July seemed to bring in a little more buying. After initial offerings had been absorbed prices steadied up 4 or 5 points from the lowest.

Private cables reported hedging and Bombay selling in Liverpool absorbed by trade calling and local buying on the strength of Egyptian. Demand for cotton cloths from India was well sustained and yarn sales were equal to production.

The market became more active and firmer after the early offerings had been absorbed. There appeared to be some buying on the failure of the weather reports to show rains in the southwest or on expectations of a bullish report on boll weevil survival within the next few days, covering by early sellers developed as prices worked up. July advanced to 19.23c and October to 18.90c, with the active months showing net gains of 13 to 17 points at mid-day.

The issue represents the first loan in 75 years authorized by the Holy See for its own institutions in Rome and offered to the public. The loan has been authorized by a special apostolic letter of the Pope, instructing the Cardinal Archbishop of Chicago, as Catholic Bishop of Chicago, to contract it, and arrange for the financial details. The notes will constitute a direct, valid and binding obligation of the Catholic Bishop of Chicago, a corporation sole. A corporation sole consists of one person only, and his successors in office, who are incorporated by law in order to give them legal capacities and advantages not possessed by natural persons. Property rights, liabilities and certain other rights attaching to the office pass to the successor in office and not to the decedent's heirs.

TRACK STARS JOIN FLORIDA VARSITY NINE

Inability to play baseball and compete on the track at the same time has taken two aces from the Florida varsity track team.

Cecil Beck and Tommy Owens, letter men in baseball and track, had to choose between the two sports, and baseball won. Beck is captain and star outfielder of the Gators and Owens is the clever shortstop who gained such favorable mention for his play against Brooklyn and Boston.

Beck and Owens are sure point getters in the 100 and 200-yard dashes and their loss naturally will cause Coach Higgins a lot of worry.

P. R. R. REPORT SHOWS GAIN FOR 1927

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company reports for the year 1927 net income of $68,160,296, after fixed charges. This is equal to $6.82 a share on 9,985,314 shares issued, against $67,567,958, or $6.77 a share in 1926.

While operating revenues decreased 6.5 per cent, the net railway operating income declined only 3.3 per cent.

The report shows that the average number of employes during the year was 201,583, a decrease of 16,117 compared with 1926. The payroll for the year showed a decrease of about $22,000,000.

Under the head of general railroad situation, the report said that the company continued to participate in conferences with other large systems in the eastern district for the purpose of outlining a general consolidation plan for the eastern railroads. Every effort is being made to reach a settlement that will be satisfactory to the railroads, the public and the regulatory authorities.

"It is the general consensus of opinion that it would be very helpful in promoting railroad consolidation if Congress would take definite action in approving the legislation which has been recommended, providing for the removal of certain restrictive features of the consolidation provisions of the transportation act."

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, April 2.—No sales were reported in the raw sugar market early today and prices were unchanged at 4.61c for duty free and 4.65c for Cuban.

Raw sugar futures opened unchanged to 2 points higher on covering and some trade and Cuban buying inspired by better European cables and steadiness in the spot market. Houses with European connections sold and with some realizing or liquidation caused slight setbacks with the market at midday about net unchanged. Trading on the whole was not very active and prices moved within a range of 1 to 2 points, although the undertone was steady. The coming Java crop is estimated at 2,558,000 tons by the Java syndicate against the previous crop of 2,350,000 tons.

No improvement was reported in the demand for refined sugar, but expectations are that a better demand will soon be witnessed. Prices were unchanged at 5.80c to 5.85c for fine granulated.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, April 2.—The bond market was quiet but firm today. Some traders apparently were induced to limit their commitments temporarily by the sudden spurt in new offerings, which approximated $80,000,000.

Bangor and Aroostook Consolidated gold 4s, which moved up nearly 3 points to a new high at 91, were the features of the railroad group. St. Paul 5s of 1975 again made a good showing and some of the Seabord issues made up losses sustained Saturday on profit-taking. Seaboard 5s, however, continued to sag.

Moderate buying of Sinclair Oil 6½s resulted in another new high for the year, but otherwise there was only nominal trading in the industrial and public utility groups.

French issues were slow in responding to news that a movement was under way to settle the republic's war obligations. Budapest 6s extended Saturday's gain, again selling at the year's high. Italian municipal and Latin American issues made a good showing.

NEW YORK, April 2.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

PENN FEDERAL MOVES UP

Securities on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange displayed a firm tone at the opening of the new week today, but business continued to reflect the cautious attitude induced by the sensational maneuvering of a selected group on the New York market.

Lone Star Gas appeared to be under accumulation here in response to the strength in leading oil issues in New York, but the buyers of the local stock did not force their market and seemed willing to wait for shares around 55. On the recent upturn accompanying the announcement of rights on Lone Star, the price jumped rather sharply to 56, but subsequently slipped back to a price under 55. During the forenoon today there was a moderate turnover with the quotation hovering around the 55 level.

Industrials were steady with one or two of the semi-investment issues pointing upward. United Engineering reached 50, but there was only a moderate supply available. Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt was scarce around 51. Armstrong Cork sold again at 63 on the opening, off 4 points from the price at which it first appeared on the board two weeks ago.

Penn Federal Corporation common bulged up a point or so to a new high since the shares were listed, but there was nothing in the way of official news to account for the strength. Traders pointed out that business at the Penn Theater is holding up to the volume of the mid-winter season and earnings for the first quarter will probably disclose earnings equal to those of the last quarter of 1927.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, April 2.—With unofficial monthly crop reports proving even more bullish than expected wheat today showed an early upward trend. According to one leading expert, the present prospect is for a domestic winter wheat crop 42,000,000 bushels less than last year. Opening unchanged to ⅝c higher, wheat reacted a little and then scored a general advance. Corn, oats and provisions also developed firmness, corn starting unchanged to ⅛c off and subsequently showing gains all around.

At noon wheat was ⅝c to 1c net higher and corn showing ⅛c to ⅜c decline.

An average of the private forecasts today on domestic winter wheat production is for a total yield of 531,000,000 bushels this season against 552,000,000 bushels harvested last year. The average condition shown in today's unofficial figures is 73.9 compared with the government percentage of 85 in December and 84.5 in April last year as well as a 10-year average of 81.9.

Current trade gossip was that the present low condition of winter wheat is accompanied by a loss of winter-killed acreage far above the average loss and in soft wheat territory the loss is apparently the heaviest ever recorded. The season is sufficiently advanced to make it clear that over a large area the abandoned acreage is sensationally large, but it is still too early to permit a final determination of the actual acreage loss. The definite fact, however, revealed by this first report of the season is that in the last 30 years there have been but two seasons in which April condition was as low as now reported.

Helping Customers to Feel Independent

ADEQUATE banking connections provide the customer a degree of financial independence that every sound business can and should have.

Many substantial patrons of the Farmers Deposit National Bank have for years been aware of the independence they enjoy through the assurance that we are able, ready and glad to meet their reasonable requirements, both as depositors and as borrowers.

Numbers of them began with us in ordinary times like the present when no immediate need existed for the relationship. Their growth long ago made us of primary importance in their financial independence. They know that they can depend upon us. That knowledge is based upon mutual esteem and mutual understanding that is unmistakable.

We welcome accounts of those to whom we are glad to feel obligated.

Bombs Planted In Clothes in Cleaners' War

CHICAGO, April 2.—(AP.)—Exploding clothes have caused $15,000 damage since January 1 at the plant of the Central Cleaners and Dyers, the president, B. H. Kornick, said today. Small bombs are concealed in suits sent in for cleaning, he said, these exploding when they reach the drying room. Each explosion destroyed a large number of suits.

Kornick told police that new threats of bomb violence have been made against the entire plant, which is co-operative. The plant, the threats said, is to be blown up tonight. Kornick has been given a police guard for the property.

The bombings are blamed on racketeers who Kornick charges control a rival cleaning and dyeing association.

For Your Daughter's Safety— A Life Insurance Trust

This is what a Life Insurance Trust can do for your daughter

If She Is Single—

The comfort of a home. Freedom to follow her reasonable desires, unhampered by the necessity of going into the business world and competing with men for a living, or accepting what men might be willing to pay her for her services in a market already crowded with women workers. Freedom to cultivate her mind; freedom to follow her feminine heart.

If She Is Married—

The ability to contribute something to the material side of the matrimonial partnership, to buy and furnish the home if she cared to, or to add to its equipment if her husband should be able to buy one. Assurance of the comforts of life if her husband should die or if he should prove unsuccessful in business. Income of her own out of which to buy little luxuries, or bestow gifts upon her children, if her husband proved successful.

In either situation a guarantee of safety and of independence, no matter what might happen. Her husband might die, might become an invalid, might prove unsuccessful as a business or professional man—but her modest income would continue—steady, dependable, smoothing the rough places; an ever present barrier against want.

And what will it cost her father? A few hundred dollars a year, devoted to life insurance premium. Fulfilling his parental obligation to her, inspiring her filial love for him. Did ever a parent apply his resources more wisely?

Such an arrangement is absolutely under the father's control. He can alter it at will, or abolish it whenever he pleases.

We suggest an early conference with our Trust Officers, who, from much experience, can explain the wisdom and workings of the Life Insurance Trust as a factor of safety for daughters.

If you cannot come, we shall be happy, upon request, to mail you some most interesting literature, explaining the plan in detail.

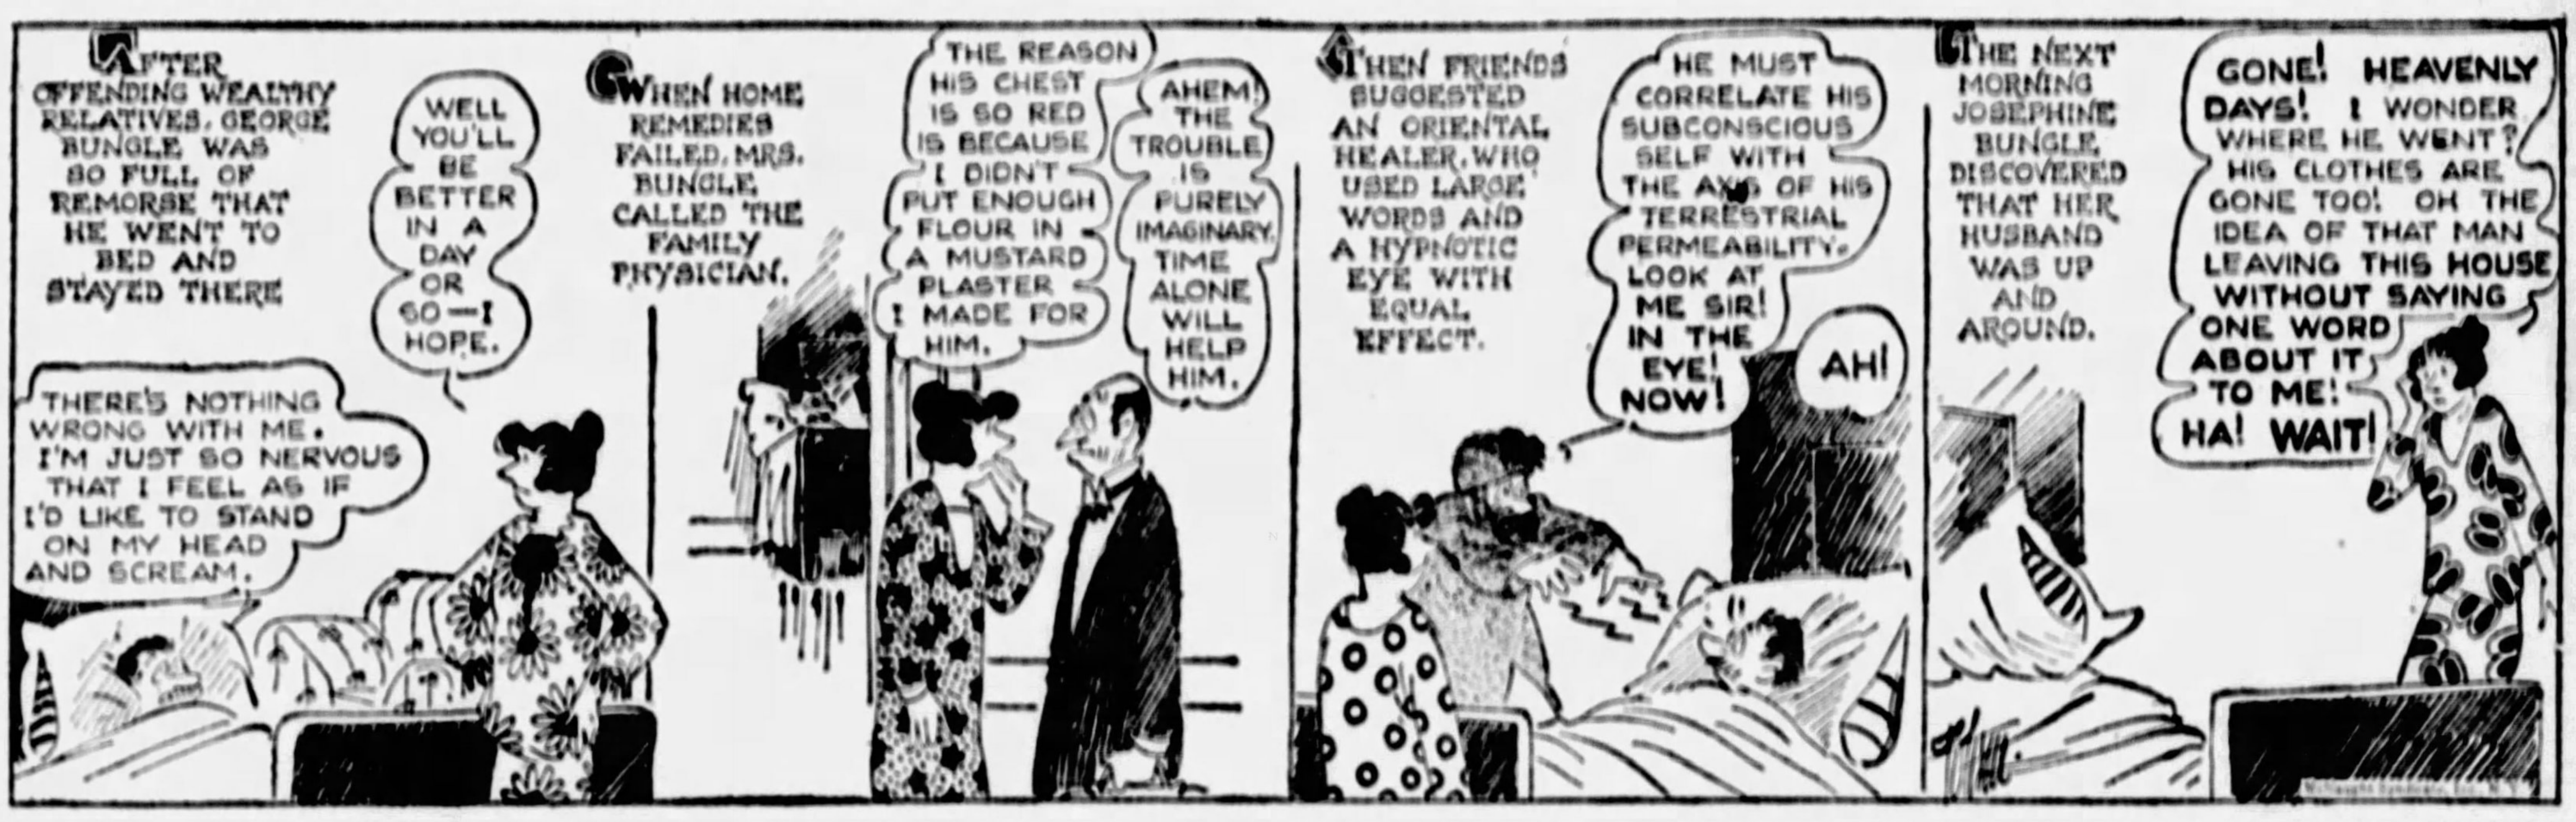
THE BUNGLE FAMILY

A Mystery



AFTER OFFENDING WEALTHY RELATIVES, GEORGE BUNGLE WAS SO FULL OF REMORSE THAT HE WENT TO BED AND STAYED THERE
WELL YOU'LL BE BETTER IN A DAY OR SO — I HOPE.
THERE'S NOTHING WRONG WITH ME. I'M JUST SO NERVOUS THAT I FEEL AS IF I'D LIKE TO STAND ON MY HEAD AND SCREAM.
WHEN HOME REMEDIES FAILED, MRS. BUNGLE CALLED THE FAMILY PHYSICIAN.
THE REASON HIS CHEST IS SO RED IS BECAUSE I DIDN'T PUT ENOUGH FLOUR IN A MUSTARD PLASTER I MADE FOR HIM.
AHEM! THE TROUBLE IS PURELY IMAGINARY. TIME ALONE WILL HELP HIM.
THEN FRIENDS SUGGESTED AN ORIENTAL HEALER, WHO USED LARGE WORDS AND A HYPNOTIC EYE WITH EQUAL EFFECT.
HE MUST CORRELATE HIS SUBCONSCIOUS SELF WITH THE AXIS OF HIS TERRESTRIAL PERMEABILITY. LOOK AT ME SIR! IN THE EYE! NOW!
AH!
THE NEXT MORNING JOSEPHINE BUNGLE DISCOVERED THAT HER HUSBAND WAS UP AND AROUND.
GONE! HEAVENLY DAYS! I WONDER WHERE HE WENT? HIS CLOTHES ARE GONE TOO! OH THE IDEA OF THAT MAN LEAVING THIS HOUSE WITHOUT SAYING ONE WORD ABOUT IT TO ME! HA! WAIT!

Stop Naval Reserve Oil Drainage by British Co.

The Secretary of the Navy is investigating to find a way to prevent a British-owned oil company from buying and exporting 300,000 barrels of oil a month, produced in the Naval Reserve field in California.

The "Naval Reserve" is a jocular name to give this oil field.

It is about time for the United States government to get interested in conserving our limited oil supply. The depletion of the Naval Reserve oil is nothing but a striking example of what is happening to our total oil deposits.

This particular area of oil-bearing public land was by Congress set aside for the use of the Navy. But, of course, the Navy and Army, in time of war, have the first call on all our oil. When it has all been pumped out of the ground—as they are on their way to do—not a battleship nor an airplane, nor a tank nor an automobile can move.

This is, none of them can move unless we are allowed to import the oil produced by British companies which are now cornering non-American oil.

An exhaustive article in The Sun-Telegraph 10 days ago called the precarious oil situation to the attention of Congress and the country.

The principal agent of the British government in rounding up the world's supplies is the British-controlled Royal Dutch Shell Company. Its president, Sir Henri Deterding, was knighted for services to the British Empire in the World War. It has production in Mexico, Colombia, the East Indies and Iraq. And it has production in the United States.

In fact, at present it has its principal production in the United States. The company's annual report covering the year 1926 (the latest available) shows that in that year it produced 5,793,267 tons of oil in the United States, exactly twice as much as it produced in the Dutch East Indies, supposed to be its main field of operation.

The 1927 figures of Royal Dutch production are not yet published. They are going to show that nearly half the company's production was from its United States properties. Only three oil companies in this country had as large a 1927 production as the British government's Oil Division, popularly known as Royal Dutch Shell.

A few startling figures will show what is going on. Last year the United States produced 72 per cent of the world's output of petroleum, but the United States has only 12 per cent of the world's petroleum reserves. How long our oil will last under these circumstances is nothing but a matter of mathematical calculation.

The world outside the United States produced only 28 per cent of the oil consumed last year, though they have 88 per cent of the world's oil reserves. And in "the world outside the United States" these reserves are owned, in the main, by Royal Dutch Shell and the Anglo-Persian Oil Company. In the latter, the British government has a 51 per cent outright ownership.

Perhaps the facts brought out by the secretary of the Navy's board of inquiry, headed by Admiral Rousseau, may even stir the Federal Oil Conservation Board into action. President Coolidge appointed the Conservation Board on December 19, 1924, and urged them to see what action could be taken to stop the dissipation of our oil resources. He said in his letter of appointment:

> "It is evident that the present method of capturing our oil deposits is wasteful to an alarming degree.
> "Developing aircraft indicates that our national defense must be supplemented, if not dominated, by aviation. It is even probable that the supremacy of nations may be determined by the possession of available petroleum and its products."

In the three years since this Conservation Board was appointed, its accomplishments have been exactly nil.

Here is a subject for investigation AND ACTION by Congress, which is fond of probes.

High Cost of Crime

$500,000,000 a Year in One State

How much would honesty be worth to the public and to those that lead unsatisfactory criminal lives?

Lieut.-Gov. Fitts, of California, says "the property losses of California caused by lawbreakers are in excess of $500,000,000 a year."

If thieves, holdup men and others in California alone turned honest, the state would save enough to build the Boulder Dam four times faster than the dam could be built. And criminals, working instead of stealing, would be adding to their own and the general prosperity.

The crime problem, much complicated by our bootlegging-prohibition crime wave, is a serious problem. And end of crime would mean prosperity for everybody, reformed criminals included.

Germany Knows Now

No More Kaiser. That's One Blessing.

All nations know, in a general way, that war doesn't pay. Germany is absolutely certain of it. In war pensions, money paid to the Allies for reparations, half of Germany's income is consumed by a war that is ended.

The German Republic, however, is no longer supporting an imperial family, a gigantic army and navy, and that is almost enough to make up the difference.

Germany expects to send an airship across the ocean to North and South America before the British trans-Atlantic air liner is ready. Germany's lighter-than-air LC-127 will use for fuel not gasoline, but a new gas mixture, no heavier than the air. The fuel is expected to cut down the airship's load by 75,000 pounds.

Real trans-Atlantic flights will come while this country is solemnly thinking about it.

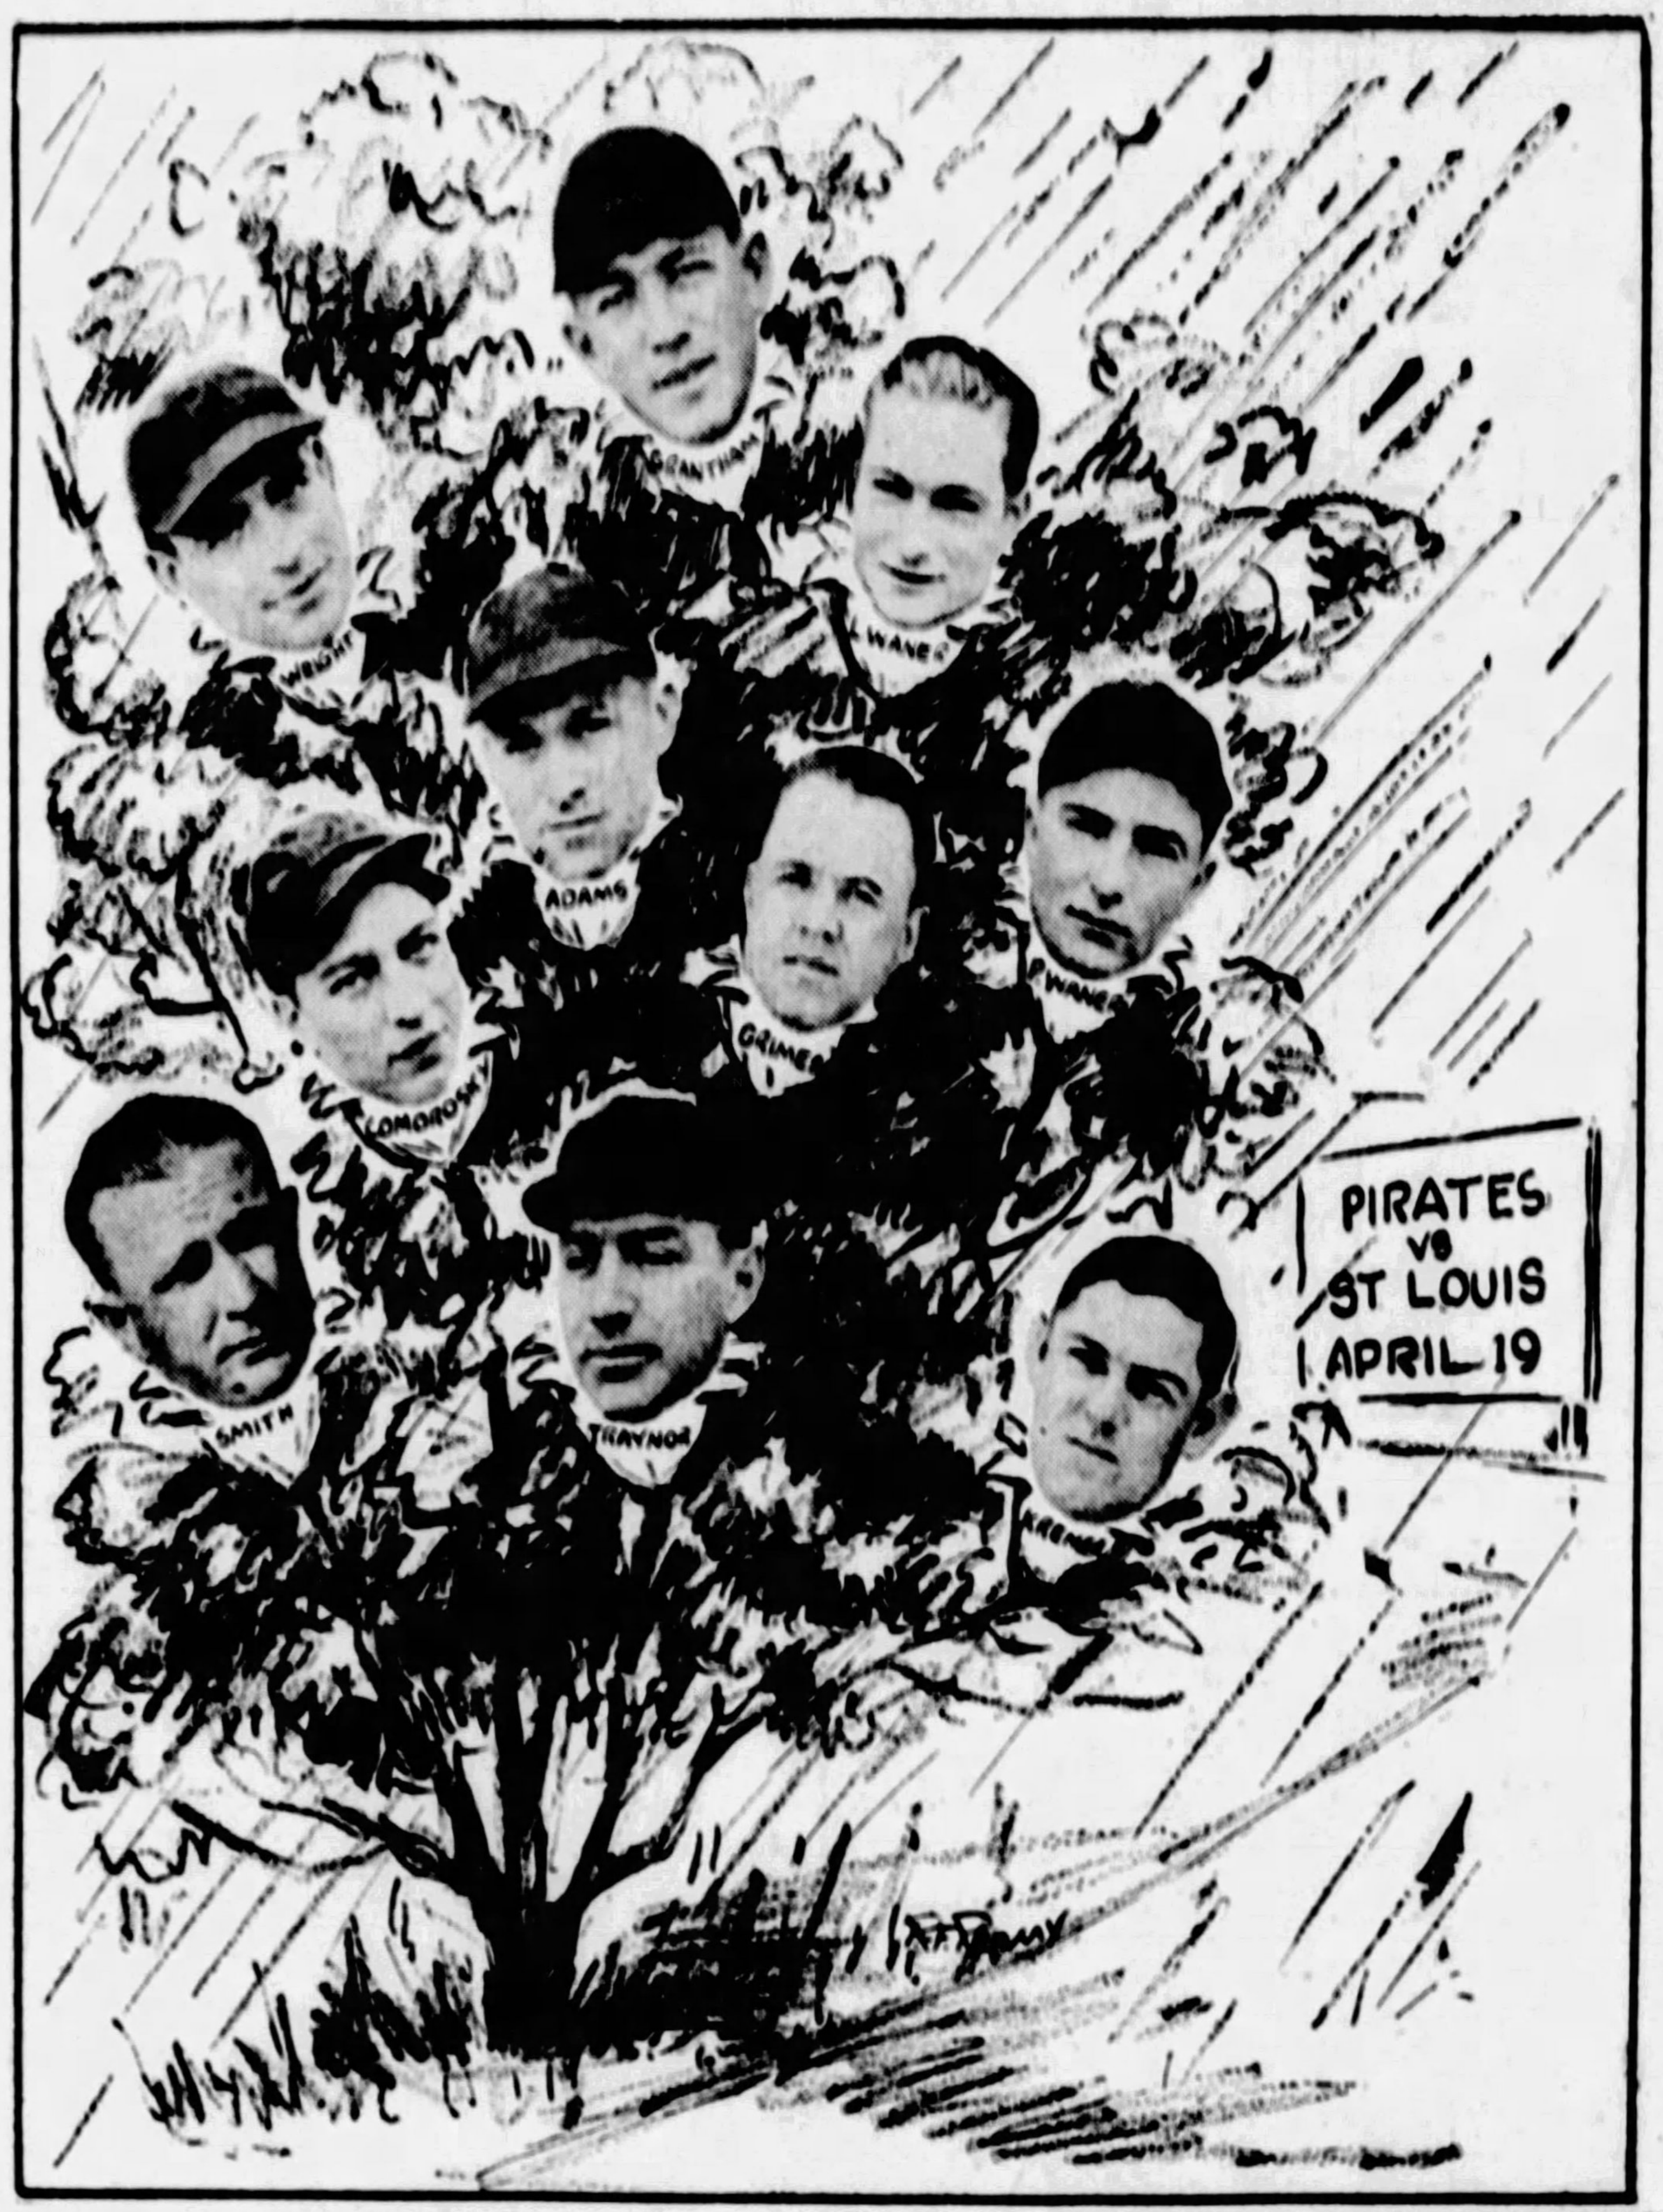
"APRIL SHOWERS BRING"—



Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Kite Flying

"WHY," asks a boy, "does my kite come down when the string breaks?"

Because a kite with a broken string is like an aeroplane with a broken propeller. The only essential difference is that the string holds the kite for the air to blow against, while the propeller forces the plane against the air, which may be motionless. A kite or a sailship is dependent upon the wind for its motive force; an aeroplane makes its own wind, the force being supplied by the engine driving its propeller.

A tugging kite is as headstrong as a spirited horse. It seems alive, it takes the bit in its teeth, it cavorts in the strength of the wind, it is seized with a sudden whim and madly makes a thousand-foot dive toward the earth, but just as your heart comes into your mouth in instant expectation of a tragic smash, the wild thing turn gracefully skyward again and soars to the clouds. Then, perhaps, the string breaks and all the glory of the kite is lost. It becomes instantly a broken wing, drifting weakly, helplessly, limp plaything of the triumphant wind. It turns head downward, tumbles over in the air, and drifts off, a derelict of the sky, to fall in some distant farmyard, or become entangled in a lofty treetop, where its wooden bones puzzle the crows.

One of the most delightful sports in the world is holding and managing a kite as it mounts in a strong wind. In China they fight kites with kites, somewhat as falcons were formerly employed to kill other birds. In the United States we use kites to explore the secrets of the winds and the upper air. Benjamin Franklin made a kite find out for him that lightning is an enormous electric spark.

The function of a kite string is easily illustrated without any mathematical analysis of the way it does its work. See our little picture.

The first position of the kite at "a," shows why the boy had to get a companion to toss the kite upward before the wind would lift it. In that first position the wind is blowing almost square to the face of the kite, so that the upward component of its force is small. But when the kite has risen to the position "b" the angle has increased, so that the lifting force is effectively a maximum, but when the kite has swung up to "c" this force has become effectively small again.

All the time the pull of the string counteracts that part of the wind's force that pushed perpendicularly against the face of the kite, but it allows the upward part of the force to act in driving the kite along the arc of a circle to an increasing elevation above the ground. The effect of a breakage of the string explains itself; the wind is then left in full control.

If the boy pulls upon the string by running rapidly backward the effect is the same as if the force of the wind had increased and the kite rises; but if he runs forward the force is decreased and the kite descends, while if he loses his hold of the string the kite will at the same time run away and begin to flutter and drop—all of which is very amusing, while it furnishes healthful exercise in the pure open air. Long live kite-flying.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Time to Find Fault

IT IS easy to find fault with the way another conducts his business.

But the one who is prone to such criticism is more than likely the one whose own affairs are not getting proper attention.

If you conduct your own business or affairs as they should be managed you would not have time to notice what others are not doing.

This is a pretty good way to check up on yourself.

It is easy to get into ruts; it is easy to divide your attention over so many things that none is well done.

When you scatter your forces you are not putting defenses against competitors.

Doubtless in your place of employment there are many who criticize.

But if they were doing their level best in the place assigned to them there would be less talk about other's work and more getting down to cases.

If you regulate your own affairs to the best of your ability you will not have so much to say about the way others attend to their responsibilities.

April, the Weaver

APRIL, April, April,
Singing like the rills,
Weaves a robe of emerald
Starred with daffodils;
Weaves a lacy pattern
In the willow trees,
Frills that stir and flutter
With the fitful breeze.

Down each Springtime pathway,
Where Youth's feet are set,
April, cunning weaver,
Hides a golden net.
Every budding primrose
In conspiracy
With each mating song-bird
Hints of ecstacy.

April, cunning weaver,
Snaring youth and maid,
Laughs with laughing jonquils,
April, cruel jade!

Tales that are Told

The Drummer's Dilemma

THERE had been a brass band contest in a Scottish town, and the winners were returning home by train in a very jubilant condition.

The smallest man of the party sat in a corner seat, and persisted in singing "Scots wha Hae," "Willie Brewed a Peck o' Maut," and other old ditties. The instruments were packed in the carriage.

At a station just before reaching Edinburgh a ticket collector appeared at the door and demanded tickets. The little man became serious at once, and said, solemnly, "I've lost ma ticket!"

"Lost your ticket?" said the collector. "You can't have lost your ticket. They were checked at Queensferry."

"I don't know about that," said the little man, dolefully, "but I'm tellin' ye I've lost ma ticket."

The collector insisted upon the little man searching his pockets, the train being held up meanwhile, but the investigation was in vain.

"I'm tellin' ye I've lost ma ticket!" the man repeated.

"But you can't have lost it," said the conductor; "it's impossible!"

"Impossible, is it? Then let me tell ye it's naething of the kind, young man, for I've lost ma big drum as well!"—London Tit-Bits.

Cold Comfort

PUDDLETON'S only toyshop was, it must be confessed, a rather magnificent affair. There were two steps down to it from the street, and it was very dark. But to the youth of the village with a penny to spend it represented the height of luxury and wonderment.

One day a small boy, having flattened his nose against the little window for some time, entered and looked round at the treasures.

Miss Perkins, behind the counter, waited for his order.

"What do you want, dear?" she inquired at last. "A drum—a trumpet—a—"

"No," said the little chap, sadly. "I don't want nothin'. I j-just came to see what I c-could have bought if I hadn't lost my p-penny!"—London Tit-Bits.

The Reminder

A NEGRO preacher was denouncing the sins of his congregation.

""Bredern and sistern, Ah warns yo' 'gainst de heinous sin of playin' dice! Ah charges yo' against de black rascality of liftin' pullets. But above all else, bredern an' sistern, Ah demolishes yo' 'gainst de crime of melon-stealin'."

A brother in the back seat made an odd sound with his lips, rose and snapped his fingers. Then he sat down again with an abashed look.

"Whoffo', ma fren'," said the parson, sternly, "does you get up an' snap yo' fingers when Ah speaks ob melon-stealin'?"

"Yo' jes' remin's me, parson," the man in the back seat answered, meekly, "whar Ah lef' mah knife."

No Need to Worry

THE angry grocer ran swiftly round the counter and seized his fair customer by the arm.

"Do you know, madam," he blurted, "that your dog has eaten a pound of my best fresh country butter! I saw him do it a second ago!"

The customer relieved the grocer of her arm and regarded him coldly.

"I did not know it," she replied, icily, "but if you are quite sure it was your best butter, that it is quite fresh, and that it really did come from the country, I don't think there is much reason to suppose it will do him any harm."

A Waiting List

WE PROTESTED, when the Congress was considering the Army bill, that an appropriation for only as large an attendance at Citizens' Military Training camps this year as last was not enough.

There were more applicants last year by nearly fifty per cent than there were accommodations. And the applications this year are thrice as many as at the corresponding period last year.

When the youth of a nation is so eager to undergo wholesome training for peace or war, it is false economy to abridge its facilities.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 2.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Early to the West street docks to say farewell to friends and glad they sailed and not I, and remained an hour watching gulls wheeling overhead, screaming their strangely human cries. And how they sight liners at sea beyond range of glasses has always fascinated me.

Home and came Arthur S. Hoffman, editor of McClure's, and we talked of things grave and gay, and later with my wife to drive to the Battery, and Broadway so swiftly changes, even in the brief time I've been away, I scarcely knew it, and back through Chinatown and the Bowery.

To dinner at Marion Gillespie's and had our fortunes told and home again, where I heard Ray Long, Jr., had cried so over a little boy being lost in a bed time story his mother had to read it all over again revamping the story into a happier ending. So to bed.

One of those British gentlemen hemming and hawing in treble cleff was listening to a lady on a bus top express eagerness to see a certain play. Finally he said: "The chances are you'd be so disappointed you'd be surprised." And somehow it sounded like somebody falling downstairs.

The bootleggers have taken to studios. Their professional cards give their names and addresses of their "studios" where they receive orders by phone and where select customers may drop in around the cocktail hour and have a few samples. The artists have left the studios and moved to the salons. The world grows grander.

Several producers have stopped selling standing room on opening nights. They argue the shuffling and whispering among standees in back of the house seriously disturbs the running of a play which is bad enough at any odds at the initial performance. Patrons who buy S. R. O. tickets are not those suffering from lack of means. Many regular theater goers prefer a place at the rail. They are usually those who want to see a particular scene, hear a song or such and can slip in and out without interruption.

On some theatrical bulletin boards these days are posted "celebrity lists." This gives players a chance to know what famous people are in the audience and often inspires them to best endeavor. It also gives comedians acting as masters of ceremonies a chance to mention or introduce this or that notable in the audience.

The first nighter mostly desired by producers continues to be Mayor Walker. He gives a gathering a New York halo and there is all the motor cycle hurrah before and after the arrival and departure of an official car.

However, if there are too many official cars at a first night the proletariat is out of luck. The street is cleared for official cars and there seems to be an impressive sort of ceremony for which the ordinary run of folk must wait, which is not so bad if it isn't raining.

House robes have become an almost necessary part of a man's wardrobe. They used to be unusual—like a monocle or a girl who smoked. But today in hotel lobbies you often see men in robes who have come down for stamps, newspapers or to greet a friend, and I am told many men who are not called upon much to meet people wear them in their offices. A furnisher on Madison avenue says he used to sell about 20 robes a year. Now the number reaches several thousands.

The play called "The Royal Family" is said to be a travesty of the talented Barrymores. As you've probably heard, the authors are reported to have submitted the script to one of them and asked if there were any changes desired. The reply was that the recipient did not care ever to speak to the authors again. That is the precise attitude, I suspect, that makes the Barrymores a topic for travesty.

An April Calendar

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Sunday, April 1—We are all fools sometimes. The principal thing is not to be a fool twice in the same way.

Monday, April 2—Train your mind. No man is worth much a day from his chin down. There is no limit to what he is worth from his chin up.

Tuesday, April 3—Go on! If you can't do anything else you can do that.

Wednesday, April 4.—The principal thing to learn is that you can control your mind.

Thursday, April 5—Love old books.

Friday, April 6—Do your best every day. Don't allow yourself to slump.

Saturday, April 7—Value wonder. It keeps the soul fresh.

Sunday, April 8—Failure is the manure of success.

Monday, April 9—The way to achieve signal success is to find the impossible and do it.

Tuesday, April 10—Don't depend on enthusiasm. Keep at work.

Wednesday, April 11—To achieve prominence is to invite brickbats.

Thursday, April 12—No resolution is of value unless it contains something you can do at once.

Friday, April 13—Stick to it. More people fail fecause they don't keep on than because they never began.

Saturday, April 14—Let your goodness be shown by your deeds and not by your creed.

Sunday, April 15—"Men, be human," said Rosseau. "It is your first duty."

Monday, April 16—The worst trait in human nature is to envy another's success.

Tuesday, April 17—Beware of superstition. It is pure dirt.

Wednesday, April 18—You need to be in tune in the family and in a business organization as much as in an orchestra.

Thursday, April 19—All have trouble. The question is, can you bear it nobly?

Friday, April 20—The laws of health are, avoid stumulants, take exercise, keep clean and don't worry. All other remedies are quack prescriptions.

Saturday, April 21—Living is an art, not a science. It is to be learned by experience, not out of books.

Sunday, April 22—Don't confuse restlessness with ambition.

Monday, April 23—Cultivate decision. Do something, even if it is wrong.

Tuesday, April 24—Turn away from bitter thoughts. Face the light.

Wednesday, April 25 — Practice meditation. It is the one way to get a true perspective of life.

Thursday, April 26—Keep your chin up and you can get away with anything.

Friday, April 27—Don't argue with your conscience. Obey it!

Saturday, April 28—Don't be afraid to say, I don't know.

Sunday, April 29—Don't indulge in self-pity.

Monday, April 30—The devil's other name is dirt.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD.

A WEALTHY man in New York broke his engagement to a poor girl because he found letters she was writing to another man, a poor one. To the girl the loss represents about $1,000,000. And that's all it represents. To salvage what she can, the girl proposes to start suit. She hopes for a settlement.

People who write violent love letters are playing with "pineapples."

Harold Reed thought Mary Sanderson was the loveliest creature on earth and proposed to her. She turned out to be a devil on wheels, merely striking a saintly pose.

Harold's safety, so he thought, lay in his not having written. He patted himself on the back till his arms ached.

He forgot that he had given Mary a photograph on which he had written: "To my future wife," and signed his full name.

Of course she collected. The sum was $20,000 in very cold cash. But she didn't care how cold it was.

Mrs. Harry Patterson wrote ardent love letters to a man not her husband. Details of their affair were reported to the husband by the other man's mother, who wanted to "save him."

The woman denied her love and said the other man was a terrible person who had insulted her.

Reporters told the man Mrs. Patterson's husband was going to thrash him for insulting his wife.

The outraged man dumped a bushel of love letters into the lap of a reporter.

The proof was conclusive.

An Army officer became engaged to a sweet young thing but got tired of being poor, and succumbed to the entreaties of a fat widow with a million. The girl sued the officer and the fat wife both. The jury gave her $50,000 on the mushy letters of the Army captain. Flecking an imaginary speck of dust from the worn and slightly faded overcoat, the girl said she thought that was "fair."

You should think she would?

The wife of a wealthy Chicago contractor was on the verge of being granted a separation and a juicy settlement, when he raided her writing desk and got a bundle of steaming love letters written to her by a Hindu half her age. Such front page reading as they made! And what the wife got, was nothing like what she expected.

Trite, but true, that if you do write, you still have much to fear.
